President To Talk On Actions In Asia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson announced today he will make a major address to the nation tomorrow night on Vietnam strategy, troop deployment, and new actions in Southeast Asia.

Johnson announced at a news conference on a patio in the Rose Garden that he will address the nation on television and radio at 9 p.m. (EST) from his White House office.

The President said he will discuss the manpower situation in Vietnam and will make an announcement of "some actions" to be taken.

Johnson said he will report on the intensive review of the war that has been under way since the Communist Tet offensive.

"It would be well if the President spoke on that subject," Johnson said.

He said as a result of announcements he plans to make tomorrow night, he will be engaged in a number of conferences in Washington next week.

Johnson said leads are constantly being explored on possible peace negotiations with North Vietnam. But he said there is no indication that Hanoi is ready to agree to "prompt and productive talks" if the United States declares a bombing pause.

The President said all indications "make me believe it is totally unacceptable to them now."

Johnson also plans to cover the nation's economic picture in the speech and apparently will put in a strong appeal for his proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

Second Super Plane Missing In Vietnam

Anti-Red Drive Reported In Guerrilla-Held Areas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A second $6 million F111A fighter-bomber is missing and presumed down on a Vietnam combat mission, the Pentagon announced today.

As in the case of the F111A reported earlier this week, no specific location was disclosed in the report that another of the planes was apparently down in Southeast Asia. There was speculation that the first plane had gone down in Laos after missions over North Vietnam.

In Saigon Anti-Communist rebellions have broken out in guerrilla-controlled sections of South Vietnam's northern provinces, American intelligence officers said today.

At Da Nang, largest American bastion in the area, the intelligence officers said revolts against Communist authority have been reported in at least three villages.

Few details of the reported revolts were available as yet. But the intelligence officers said the rebellions showed signs of a "groundswell" among Vietnamese civilians against the Viet Cong.

In other war developments, U.S. Air Force B52 Stratofortresses three times today bombed the North Vietnamese troops surrounding the Marine fort of Khe Sanh on South Vietnam's northern frontier—just above the embattled area where the rebellions were reported.

In North Vietnam, American jet pilots yesterday flew 106 bombing missions and—for the first time in six weeks—battled Soviet-built MIG fighters. An Air Force F4C Phantom piloted by Col. Wesley D. Kimball, 41, of Canton, Okla., was credited with "probably" shooting down a MIG21.

Among the U.S. strike planes yesterday were five F111A swing-wing jets. They hit Communist military targets near the Mu Gia pass, gateway to the guerrilla's Ho Chi Minh supply trail south.

In other action:

U.S. Army Special Forces and government troops, according to a delayed military report, Wednesday tracked down a Communist battalion between Saigon and the Cambodian border. Two days' fighting ensued. The allies killed 121 Communists. Allied losses were 15 South Vietnamese killed and 54 men wounded including five

GUNS ENFORCE THE PEACE IN MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — National Guard rifles enforced peace in Memphis today but protests on behalf of the city's striking garbage collectors continue.

Only minor incidents occurred last night under a rigid curfew, and the presence of police and guardsmen, on patrol since a protest march turned into a riot Thursday, was the only sign of life on most streets.

The protests continued but on a smaller scale than the march of 6,000 which shattered into violence and brought one death, injury to 60 and 300 arrests.

President Johnson, making a specific reference to the disorder in Memphis, said yesterday all segments of society should "strive to prevent violence, to obey the law and to preserve conditions of social stability which are essential to progress."

Rafferty Asks Law To Block School Cuts

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Max Rafferty has urged legislation that would prevent Reagan administration cuts in expected school aid next year and drastically alter the governor's tax relief plan.

The Republican state school superintendent told Reagan's Finance Department it should forego an announced 6.7 per cent cut in new state school aid expected next year by spending property tax relief money for education.

SCHOOL AID

The school aid law, enacted last year, is expected to fall as much as $80 million short of school needs next year. Reagan's property tax relief program calls for $155 million in aid to county governments.

"We think that tax relief should be in terms of school taxes," Everett T. Calvert, Rafferty's chief deputy, said yesterday.

"I must say that I can think of no better way to get two birds . . . with one stone than to enact legislation that will use part of the $194 million set aside for tax relief to retain provisions" of the school aid law, Rafferty wrote the Finance Department.

He released the letter to newsmen yesterday. The $194 million figure includes about $39 million for business inventory tax relief.

ERRORS CLAIMED

Rafferty joined Reagan in blaming the Legislature for errors in the school aid law, which carries the name of Democratic Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh of Inglewood. It provides for $145 million a year in school aid.

Many school districts already have said they are planning programs for next year on the basis of original estimates in the Unruh bill.

Rafferty said his school aid-tax relief plan also would help Reagan achieve his goal of the state paying 50 per cent of school costs.

Calvert said the final estimates on how much school aid will cost won't be available until the final allocations are made later this spring as the law provides.

SYMPATHY FROM SACRAMENTO

Girl, 6, Complains To Reagan About State Tax On Her Toys

Gov. Ronald Reagan has responded with sympathy, but also a few facts of life as he sees it, to a constituent who wrote him complaining about the tax on toys.

The complaint, from Miss Wendy Winter, 6, of 34 Southridge Drive, Tiburon, was simple enough: "Dear Governor Reagan, I do not like to pay tax on toys. I only like to pay the right amount. Love, Wendy Winter."

"Wendy saves her money until she has exactly the right amount for a toy," said her mother, Mrs. Linda Winter. "If the toy is 29 cents and the woman says it will be 2 cents tax, she becomes very upset."

The governor responded to Wendy's letter this week. "I agree with you," he wrote. "I would much rather not have to pay it either, but we all have to pay for our schools, our state hospitals, our judges and courts, and all the other things our state government does.

"I think our government is doing too many things and that we all have to pay more than we should in taxes on toys and all the other things we buy.

"That's why I am trying too hard to make sure that California's government spends as little as possible, so that you will be able to use more of your allowance for the things you want and need, and so that your mother and your father can, too."

The letter from the governor satisfied Wendy, although, as her mother said, "She didn't understand anything except that he is against the tax on toys, too."

Cable Mangled; Phone Service To Be Delayed

A ruptured cable will cause occasional delays in Marin County-San Francisco telephone service through this evening, according to Troy Lewis, Pacific Telephone Co. manager in Marin.

A dredge working in Corte Madera Creek under the Greenbrae Bridge yesterday afternoon accidentally mangled a three-inch cable, one of four between Marin and San Francisco, and service was off for about 45 minutes in parts of the county from San Rafael north.

Calls were re-routed over the three remaining cables, and the only sign of the problem today, said Lewis, was an occasional recording, denoting a delay.

The cable mangled by the dredge crossed the creek bottom in about 15 feet of water. Phone company crews dug the cable up on either side of the creek today, spliced 900 feet of new cable into it and draped it along the freeway as a temporary measure.

They will re-bury it later in the week, but Lewis said calls will be going through on it by this evening. The break yesterday was at 4 p.m., Lewis said.

The dredge is working on the creek flood control project.

Blast Rips Army Induction Center

NEW YORK (UPI)—An explosion early today ripped through the U.S. Army induction center in lower Manhattan, shattering every window on one side of the eight-story stone and granite building.

Police said the explosion apparently was caused by a bomb in the rear of the fortress-like structure. The blast caused little structural damage. There were no injuries.

31 PER CENT SMOKE IT

Marijuana Use Poll Revealed At School

Thirty-one per cent of Redwood High School students smoke marijuana, and 45 per cent have tried it, according to a poll by the staff of the Redwood Bark, student newspaper.

Only three per cent fewer smoke marijuana than smoke cigarettes, the poll showed. Most of the "grass" smokers do not use tobacco.

The poll also indicated that changing the legal status of marijuana would have little effect on its use, at least by Redwood High students.

The entire student body was asked 11 questions regarding marijuana and cigarettes. "Have you tried marijuana?" and "Do you still smoke it?" were answered by 1,797 students. Only about 1,200 answered the whole list of questions, however.

Bob Roth and Louise Nemschoff, co-editors of the Redwood Bark, said the poll was taken after 73 of 110 students who attended the second session of a two-session "grass symposium" in February reported they had tried marijuana, and some of them estimated as high as 90 per cent of the students used it. Roth, believing these figures were not representative, decided to poll the whole student body. Tabulation of the findings was completed this week and

1,800 Tell Views On Marijuana

BY LOUISE NEMSCHOFF
Redwood High School

Nearly 1,800 students from all classes expressed their views on marijuana in a recent poll conducted by the Redwood Bark staff. Questions on the poll attempted to determine the students' acquaintance with marijuana, what they thought abut the drug's physiological affect and what they thought about its legal status.

One obvious point brought out by the poll was that the upperclassmen were much more familiar with marijuana than the freshmen and sophomores, and they tended to be the ones who continue to smoke it.

Principal Donald Kreps explained this by saying the older students, faced with more pressures and responsibilites, have more need of an escape mechanism, one of which is marijuana.

According to Kreps, "parents have the most crucial role" in dealing with these pressures. To

Jordan Asks End Of Arms To Israelis

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Jordan said today Israel is "intoxicated by its military might" and called for an end to all arms shipments to the Jewish state.

Jordanian Ambassador Muhammad H. El-Farra told an urgent meeting of the Security Council called to consider Friday's flare-up of fighting in the Jordan Valley that the imposition of sanctions against Israel could not be delayed further.

El-Farra charged that Israel opened fire yesterday "without provocation," using tanks and mortar fire against Jordanian positions, including the village of Al Karamah which was attacked by Israel in a punitive raid against Arab terrorists on March 21.

"The Jordanian government denies emphatically any connection whatsoever with incidents alleged to be taking place in the Israeli-occupied territory," he said.

"The whole world knows by now that our actions were confined to defensive measures. It is the Israelis that were intoxicated by their military might, which is steadily increasing, thanks to the generosity of other nations."

The United States, a major supplier of arms to Israel, agreed only this week to resume shipment of arms and aircraft to Jordan.

Marinites Arrested In Dope Charges

I-J Special Report

ESCALON — Daniel Hallinan, 19-year-old son of the Belvedere attorney, and a Greenbrae man were among five young persons arrested early today on narcotics charges in this San Joaquin County community.

Their car was halted by Patrolman James Carter at 1:15 a.m. on Highway 120 because of a faulty tail light and curfew violation.

Carter said he found suspected LSD, marijuana and other narcotics in the back seat and the trunk of the car.

Hallinan, of 61 Peninsula Road, Belvedere, told the officer he was under the influence of drugs. He is a son of Vincent Hallinan, who has a San Francisco law office and once ran for President.

Hallinan, Leighton M. Norton, 23, of 28 Via La Cumbre, Greenbrae, and Henry Farre, 19, of San Francisco, driver of the car, were booked at the county jail in Stockton.

The five also included a 17-year-old girl and a 14-year-old girl, who were taken to the Stockton Juvenile Hall.

Hallinan and Norton said they were students.

Kennedy Denies Bid To Louisiana Governor

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy has denied he offered Louisiana Gov. John McKeithen the second spot on his ticket in an effort to woo Southern support for his presidential candidacy.

Kennedy, in Flagstaff, Ariz., responsed with a terse "No" when asked about the report late last night. He refused to elaborate.

Former White House Press Secretary Pierre Salinger, a key member of the Kennedy camp, quoted the New York Senator as saying the story was "absolutely without foundation."

McKeithen, who reportedly rejected the offer refused comment today.

On the Republican side of the busy campaign, Richard M. Nixon met privately with two GOP governors who are not backing him. He said he "twisted no arms."

McKeithen, declining to confirm or deny he had talked with Kennedy Thursday, had said just one day before that he had not been "personally" contacted by Kennedy on the matter but if he were, he would "reassess" his political future.

Nixon, still the only major GOP candidate running, met separately with Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, a strong backer of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, and Gov. Claude Kirk of Florida. Kirk is believed eager to win the GOP vice presidential nomination.

President Johnson, still not officially announced for renomination, spoke to pro-LBJ groups in Washington yesterday and took another swing at the nation's "croakers and doubters."

Appearing before the Young Democrats and the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE), the President defended both his foreign and domestic policies.

He told the youthful Democrats he had seen many young Americans "go far away to protect freedom and then come home without the blush of shame on their cheeks." Expanding his attack on critics of his Vietnam policies, he drew an analogy between them and "the croakers and doubters who roamed our legislative halls (and) denied President Franklin D. Roosevelt $5 million with which to fortify Guam" just prior to World War II.

He told the labor group that

Tax-Spending Vote Delayed To Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A compromise plan to save President Johnson's proposed income tax increase appeared today to have lost momentum in the Senate, raising the prospect of further dispute over the controversial tax hike-spending cut measure.

The Senate wrapped up voting on a series of amendments to the basic bill yesterday, but put over until Tuesday a final vote on the compromise. The basic bill would extend certain automobile and telephone excise taxes due to drop to much lower rates Monday.

As offered by Sens. John J. Williams, R-Del., and George A. Smathers, D-Fla., the compromise would give Johnson a long-sought 10 per cent income tax surcharge but require him at the same time to cut federal spending next year by $6 billion.

Before the Senators quit for the weekend, they refused by a 55 to 22 vote to exempt $7.8 billion in urban crisis programs from the spending cuts. Also, by a 62-17 vote, the Senate rejected an amendment by Sen. Joseph Clark, D-Pa., that would have required cuts in military foreign aid, the space program and the proposed $79 billion Defense Department budget for fiscal 1969.

The Smathers-Williams compromise at one time enjoyed considerable support in the Senate, but with Friday's actions and a vote the day before to exempt pork barrel public works projects from the spending cuts, it appeared to have lost some Republican votes.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., let it be known he was ready to step in with his own plan if he is sure the compromise will pass.

Long said he is ready to submit a substitute for the Administration surtax calling instead for an average increase of 6 to 7 per cent in the basic rate of tax on income.

Police Patrol Streets After Chicago Fires

CHICAGO (AP) — Police stepped up street patrols and an arson investigation continued today after a series of fires that drove thousands of persons from three big downtown department stores and caused damage in the millions.

Fires erupted yesterday at intervals of about one hour in the State Street stores.

Heaviest damage was reported at Carson Pirie Scott & Co. which stands at the busy corner of State and Madison. John T. Pirie Sr., the firm's chairman, estimated damage could run to $20 million. The store was closed and officials said they did not know when it could be reopened.

An hour after the first fire at Carson's, firemen rushed to a blaze a block away at Montgomery Ward & Co. One hour after the second blaze, firemen were sent to Wieboldt's, Inc., which is across Madison Street from Carson's.

No employees or customers were reported injured in the fires but several firemen were treated for smoke inhalation.

The blazes, occurring just before and during the noon hour, drove pre-Easter shoppers and clerks into the street. Thousands more working in other downtown buildings made their way to the scene to watch.

Three In Plane Die As Craft Hits San Jose School Yard

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)— Thirty minutes before the plane crashed, some 1,100 children had been playing in the school yard. Their lives may have been spared by a recess bell.

The students filed back to their classrooms in the Clyde Fischer Elementary School yesterday when the 1:30 p.m. bell sounded. Thirty minutes later, the flaming light plane pancaked over a fence and skidded through the playgrounds. All three occupants were killed.

They were William F. Wesson, 27, an airline flight engineer from Santa Clara, his wife Betty, also 27, and their 4-year-old daughter Jennifer. Friends said they left their infant son Billy at home and took off on a pleasure flight to a restaurant off Interstate 80 near Sacramento for lunch.

Eyewitnesses said the four-seat Bonanza narrowly missed the roofs of several houses on Karl Lane, hit the street and bounced over the schoolyard fence before bursting into flames.

The schoolyard was nearly empty at the time. About 35 students in an outdoor physical education class were quickly ushered inside. They had been about 250 yards from the crash.

Thirty minutes earlier, most of the school's 1,130 students had reported back to classes following the noon recess.

Horse Clinic Set Tomorrow

Sixty-four horses were treated at the first clinic Feb. 24.

Services available will include dentistry, shoeing, worming, and shots for tetanus, influenza, encephalomyelitis and rabies.

Abducted Cadet Is Found Dead

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa. (UPI) —A military school cadet, abducted with a friend and their dates while sitting outside a restaurant, was found shot to death late last night and buried near hear.

State police located the body of Kenneth W. Frick, 21, of Ford City, Pa. and a student at Virginia Military Institute at Lexington, Va., in a grave in Jackson.

Frick's three companions escaped early yesterday from the four men who kidnaped them Thursday night while they were parked outside the restaurant near here.

Frick, a high school basketball star, was with Richard Dragan, 21, also of Ford City, and two Slippery Rock College coeds, whose names were withheld, when they were approached by four armed men about 10:30 p.m. Thursday outside a restaurant on Route 173 near here.

Police said Frick, Dragan and the two girls were forced from their car at rifle point.

Frick and Dragan were locked in the trunk of the abductors' automobile while the girls rode in the front seat. Police said the girls told them Frick was released on a deserted country road believed to be in adjacent Mercer County.

The abductors stood guard over Dragan and the coeds at a farmhouse. Police said Dragan overpowered one of the abductors and escaped with the girls early Friday. None of three was injured.

Storer Charges Span President Ignoring Public

Marin Supervisor Thomas T. Storer today charged that the president of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District "is hiding from the public and the press."

The object of Storer's ire was John E. Nelson of Mendocino County, who declined Wednesday to accept Storer's challenge to a public debate on the performance and future of the district. Instead, Nelson offered to debate Storer after the June 4 primary election, in which Storer is seeking re-election.

"Mr. Nelson's refusal to meet me in a public debate merely demonstrates his callous disregard of the public and the public's elected representatives and it is he, Mr. Nelson, who is playing politics by using an election as an excuse to avoid an open forum and declare his position, something all elected officials must do," Storer said in a press release.

Storer also criticized the bridge board for not allowing him time Thursday to comment on a study of a second deck on the bridge. "This lack of courtesy," he declared, "reflects the indifference and disregard the Golden Gate Bridge board has for the public."

Army Brutality Claims Denied

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Army officials have denied charges leveled by the American Civil Liberties Union that two Vietnam veterans in the Presidio stockade have been harassed, threatened and refused medical treatment.

The allegations were made Wednesday by Ernest Besig, executive director of the ACLU, in behalf of privates Robert S. Black Jr., 21, and Herman L. Jones, 19.

A 6th Army spokesman replied yesterday that the complaints had been investigated, and they "seemed to be a reiteration of previous charges which already have been found to be untrue."

GOP To Move

BERKELEY (AP) — California's delegation to the Republican National Convention is likely to support Richard M. Nixon for president if Gov. Reagan stays out, a GOP volunteer leader predicts.

Frank P. Adams of Piedmont, president of the California Republican Assembly and a member of Reagan's delegation, made the forecast yesterday as the 34th annual meeting of the party's largest statewide organization got underway.

The group was expected to endorse Reagan's favorite son presidential candidacy and reject incumbent Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel in favor of Max Rafferty for the Republican U. S.

Ashes In Wall

MOSCOW (UPI)—The ashes of Yuri Gagarin, the first man to soar into space, went to a hero's rest in the Kremlin Wall today.

A grieving and grateful Soviet Union gave Gagarin, 34, its highest honors. His comrades in the cosmonaut corps pledged that "we are ready" to carry on his work.

But it was his wife, Valentina, whose tears expressed the nation's sorrow. Weeping heavily, she knelt before her husband's portrait as it leaned against the wall which became his grave and, for 30 painful and tragic seconds, embraced and kissed the picture.

New President

PRAGUE (UPI)—The National Assembly today elected non-Communist Ludvik Svoboda president of Czechoslovakia in the first secret balloting in a presidential election since the Communists took over in 1948.

The assembly elected the 73-year-old general, a candidate acceptable to both the Soviets and the new, reform-minded Czech Communist leaders, in a meeting in a medieval castle, despite protests of students who demanded an intellectual be given the largely figurehead post.

Student Unrest

BOWIE, Md. (AP) — The campus and buildings of Bowie State College were taken over early today by students at the predominantly Negro school.

The president of the school, Dr. Samuel L. Myers, met with the students during the night and told them that if they had not left by morning he would "recommend that the state police come in and move you, forcibly if necessary."

Students have demanded more state funds and other concessions from the school administration and state authorities because of what they called inadequate facilities.

WARSAW (UPI)—The rector of Warsaw University today closed down eight courses affecting more than 1,000 students in an apparent attempt to halt further demonstrations to protest Communist policies.

PEDESTRIAN STRUCK

Jean Meeker Cazneaux, 60, of 40 Ross Avenue, San Anselmo, is comforted by an ambulance attendant after she was struck yesterday on a San Rafael sidewalk by a car when its brakes failed. She is reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital with a possible head injury. Driver of the car which struck Mrs. Cazneaux at the entrance to the Bank of America parking lot on B Street was Fanniebel Beam, 55, of 15 Cedar Street, San Anselmo, police said. She was not cited. Liberal Arts Selection Is Supported

Students should have a choice of a few liberal arts courses which are not necessary for college preparation, a study session on San Rafael schools agreed today.

A panel discussing curriculum at the study session in Peacock Gap Country Club pointed up a need to inject some liberal arts subjects, not necessarily on a daily basis, into a more flexible curriculum.

A problem is where such courses can be scheduled in a curriculum heavily loaded with college preparatory subjects.

About 25 teachers, administrators and interested citizens attended the study session.

An education profile of San Rafael developed at the sessions showed that the community continues to have a high average level of educational background, although one-third of students complete their education at the 12th grade level.

There is a 5 per cent drop-out rate and the community is becoming more mobile. There is a one-fourth movement in and out of the community each year. There has been some increase in the number of lower economic level families whose children attend San Rafael schools, the session revealed.

Peyote Raid Figures Enter Guilty Pleas

Two San Francisco men, arrested when Fairfax police made one of the biggest mescaline and peyote confiscations in Northern California history, pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to processing peyote.

Gary Paul Davis, 23, and Michael Edgar Kerr, 20, both of San Francisco, admitted producing peyote in a laboratory in a rented house at 79 Dominga Avenue.

Police and federal narcotics agents found 40 gallons of mescaline, 100 pounds of peyote buttons and a small quantity of marijuana when they raided the laboratory June 7.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Michael Anthony admitted to the court yesterday that there was not enough evidence to convict Barbara Irene Kerr, 20, who was also charged with processing the hallucinatory drugs.

The charge against her was dismissed. Anthony also asked that charges against the two men of marijuana possession be dismissed in light of their guilty plea.

Davis and Kerr were told to appear in Superior Court April 15 for sentencing. Punishment for the offense can be up to a year in county jail or 10 years in prison.

Police said the peyote was shipped in from Mexico and the still materials were purchased in pieces all over the Bay Area.

The laboratory was apparently the men's first attempt at drug making, police said. They believed that the raid nipped the entrepeneurs before they sold any.

do this, he explained, parents could try to make the home environment supportave, so that young people can feel self-esteem and have a place to "let off steam."

One junior girl commented on her poll, "There is a marijuana 'problem' at Redwood only because hundreds of kids are learning to break the law at such a young age." A majority felt that the legal status of marijuana should be changed, but only 18 per cent advocated complete legalization.

Most of those who do not smoke marijuana explained this by saying they have no desire to do so.

Bark co-editor Bob Roth, who wrote the poll, said the results were not completely accurate because "there were some people who tried to be funny and gave absurd answers." He felt, however, that the results gave a good picture of the student body, since nearly 75 per cent of the student body responded.

Strike Vote Held By Bus Drivers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Negotiators met with a federal mediator in San Francisco today in an effort to avoid a strike of Greyhound bus drivers in 11 western states.

Drivers of the Amalgamated Transit Union have operated without a contract since March 1.

A strike vote authorized a walkout. Monday midnight was set as a tentative strike deadline.

A bus company spokesman said mediation was continuing in hopes of averting a walkout. Greyhound drivers struck the company for 40 days in 1966.

A Greyhound spokesman said services effected include San Francisco Bay commute runs.

Sentencing Due In Theft Case

John Franklin Pierce, 20, is scheduled to be sentenced Monday in Marin County Superior Court for stealing $800 in furniture and other items from a Corte Madera warehouse while employed in the adjacent Marin County Schools Office as a janitor.

Pierce pleaded guilty Thursday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of second degree burglary.

Police said Pierce used a filed knife blade to enter the Montgomery Ward and Co. warehouse while supposedly making his janitorial rounds.

Mrs. Lula M. Lowe, who manages the home, reported to police at about 10 p.m. yesterday that the girl had failed to return from school. She was last seen at San Rafael High School about 8 a.m. She was wearing a white blouse, blue levis, and sandals.

75 million Americans were "working at better jobs and for better wages than at any time in your entire lives."

Meanwhile, AFL-CIO Political Director Alexander E. Barkan said a UPI report that labor groups in Wisconsin were giving Johnson lackadaisical support was a "total fabrication."

In other major political developments:

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, the third Democrat contending for the Presidential nomination, picked up key support in Wisconsin, just four days before that state's primary, when Rep. Robert Kastenmeier, D-Wis., endorsed him. Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., is also supporting the Minnesota Senator while the dairy state's third Democratic congressman, Rep. Clement Zablocki, is heading the Johnson-Humphrey forces.

Three major Rockefeller supporters—his brother Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas, Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., and retired Gen. James Gavin — said that despite his disavowals, the New York Governor was still very much in the race for the GOP nomination.

Baby Sitter Found Stabbed To Death

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Linda Harmon, 14-year-old baby sitter, was found stabbed to death early today when her employer returned.

Mrs. Jean Zakedas found Linda in a sitting position on the living room sofa, police said. Beside her was a 13-inch carving set fork and pieces of a heavy plaster Oriental idol.

The two small boys she was taking care of were unhurt.

Police said the girl apparently opened a chained door to let her assailant in.

SEW SIMPLE

Try Frivolous Fabric To Combat Spring Fever

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE:

As a rule I love to sew. Sometimes I seem to get "sewed out" and sitting down to my machine is almost impossible. This feeling has lasted as long as two months. Is there any cure?

MRS. A. N.

DEAR MRS. A. N.:

Sounds like you have spring fever and need to do something about it! I would suggest you go out and purchase some absolutely frivolous fabric that is completely different than anything you have ever made before.

You may choose a gay, colorful print and make some hostess pajamas, a toga, or any kind of fun garment that can be worn at home. If you've never done this, you have missed a very wonderful experience.

You may wont to make a dress out of something completely impractical as to color. This too will probably surprise you and in the end you will find there is no such thing today as an impractical color.

What I'm trying to say in brief is this: You are in a rut and need a big boost to get out of it. Forget tradition and make one garment just for fun. Bet it won't be the last one.

DEAR EUNICE:

Being an amateur seamstress, I have had no experience with bonded crepe. My daughter has selected bonded crepe for her bridesmaids dresses. The style is simple A-line, with an inverted back pleat in the skirt.

Now I am concerned about the fabric since everyone has a different opinion about the effect I will have from bonded fabric. Would you help us make a decision?

MRS. W. E. F.

DEAR MRS. W. E. F.:

Since you have described the style of the dresses as A-line, I would say the bonded crepe would work very well. If your dresses were draped, you would want the soft, lovely effect that only crepe can give. This could be your clue to many fabrics.

It isn't so much the fabric as the style of the garment for which it will be used. I always try to suggest a pattern and the fabric at the same time and not try to make any selection with a closed mind.

DEAR EUNICE:

I have very sloping shoulders and have to slant the pattern at the shoulder seam and take out a corresponding amount at the lower armhole. Should the sleeve notches be lowered an equal amount to match with the back and front of the garment?

MRS. D. C.

DEAR MRS. D. C.:

Yes, if you change the notches on one part of your pattern, you must make a corresponding change on the other or the two will not match perfectly.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

"What Is A Soldier?" Reprinted After About Fifty Requests

DEAR HELEN:

You once printed "What is a Soldier?" It could also be used for airmen or sailors with a few changes in words. I now have a soldier boy friend. Would you please print it again? — DARLENE

DEAR DARLENE:

As yours is about the fiftieth request, I'll gladly reprint —

What Is A Soldier?

Between childhood and second childhood we find the fascinating group of humanity called soldiers. They come in assorted sizes, races, weights, heights and states of sobriety. They can be found anywhere — in Europe, Vietnam, Jersey City; in clubs, bars, combat, love — sometimes on base, and always in debt.

Constantly out of cash, they hardly ever sleep and are outrageously overworked.

Girls love them, towns tolerate them and governments support them.

A soldier is laziness with a deck of cards, bravery with a tattooed arm, and protector of the world with a copy of Playboy under his shirt.

He has the energy of a turtle, the slyness of a fox, the brains of an idiot, the sincerity of a liar (especially when asked to pull that extra duty); and the aspirations of a Casanova — any time. When he wants something, it is usually connected with a pass.

Some of his interests are: girls, women, females, dames, broads, chicks, and the opposite sex; money, cash, moolah, skins, rocks, bills, greenbacks, coins and also a four-on-the-floor convertible. His dislikes are: bills, answering letters, wearing his uniform, superior officers, the chow, making bed check, his first sergeant, getting up in the morning.

No one but a soldier can carry all this in his pockets: a lighter without fluid; a pack of crushed butts; I.D. card, comb, church key, bottle of G. I. gin, dog tags, two girlie pictures; one picture of the girl; a bulging wallet, devoid of money; the main stem from a watch; a letter from home; the letter he should have mailed last week; five keys on a ring, none of which he uses; and enough of yesterday's pay to buy one cup of coffee. He likes to spend his money on girls, booze, tape recorders, record players, records, poker and the rest foolishly.

If you razz him about one ribbon, he would just as soon drop you in a vat of jello and watch you quiver to death.

It is impossible to forget that cultivated knack he has for being only five minutes late; impossible to forget that mischievous smile; and impossible to get back any money you have loaned him.

A soldier is a magic creature. You lock him out of your home but not of your heart. You scratch him off your mailing list, but not out of your mind. You might as well give up. He is your long-away-from-home lover and your one and only bleary-eyed, good-for-nothing, bundle of worry.

Yet all your shattered dreams become insignificant when he winks at you with those bloodshot rabbit-eyes and says, "Hi ya, Angel, I'm home!" — ANONYMOUS.

Northgate Antique Shop To Be Open Daily 11 A.M. To 3 P.M.

The Northgate Antique Shop at the Marin Art and Garden Center announces a change in shop hours beginning April 1. The new schedule has the antique shop open from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Mrs. Frederick W. Good, president of the board of directors of the antique shop, says that Northgate's decision to be open five days a week resulted from the many requests by visitors to have a more flexible and appealing schedule. Receiving day for goods brought in by consignees will still be on Monday from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. — unless other arrangements are made by prior phone call to the shop.

The Northgate Antique Shop was started 20 years ago in the old "bottle house" on the grounds of the Art and Garden Center. Two years later it was moved to the Lockside House. When the activities of the "antique shop group" demanded extra space, the more commodious Magnolia Room was taken over by the Northgate Group. Finally, in 1965, the Northgate board passed a resolution which permitted the purchase of a home on Laurel Grove. This home has been incorporated into the Art and Garden Center grounds.

The antique shop is the sole continuing project of the Northgate Group, one of the affiliate members of the non-profit Marin Art and Garden Center. It is staffed by Northgate volunteers. Chairmen of the shop this year are Mesdames Richard R. Mayer, Harding McPhun, Joseph L. Minutoli and Calvin F. Rossi.

"WHAT DO We Mean by Individualized Instruction? What Are Its Goals and How Do We Evaluate Them?" will be discussed by Dr. James A. Collins Tuesday at 10 a.m. in the gallery of the Mill Valley Public Library.

This will be the second of a series of meetings sponsored for the public by the parent education committee of the Mill Valley Parent-Teacher Association Council. All of the meetings scheduled pertain to "Changing Trends in Education."

Dr. Collins is superintendent of the Mill Valley Elementary School District. A question period will follow his formal remarks.

MRS. HERBERT E. Sears will present a demonstration-lecture of a Japanese flower arranging on Tuesday at the Novato Garden Club meeting to be held at the Novato Community House.

Mrs. Sears, a Novato resident, studied at the Kazan School near Tachikawa Air Force Base, Japan. She received a teacher's certificate in the ancient art, following weekly lessons for three years. Flowers, Mrs. Sears said, and greens and wood are used in the Kazan theory which depicts, heaven, man and earth in each arrangement.

New officers will be installed following a luncheon at 1 p.m. Mrs. George Barnwell will be installed for her second term as president, other officers include Mesdames Howard Crabtree, first vice president; Robert Hood, second vice president; William L. Bowen, recording secretary, Edwin A. Rose, corresponding secretary and Ralph G. Michener, treasurer.

Chairman for the luncheon is Mrs. John Sloat assisted by Mesdames Joseph Amato, Jackson Bunker, Crabtree, Hood, Ivan Johnson and William Rupert.

SAN RAFAEL Chapter 215, Order of Eastern Star will hold a luncheon and fashion show on Wednesday, in the banquet room of the Masonic Hall in San Rafael. Fashions for daytime and evening wear will be presented. Mrs. Cliff Berg, worthy matron, will direct the models who include Mesdames Glenn Adrian, OB Cavanaugh, Charles Goodwin, James Hopkins, Herbert Hotchner, Harvey Morrill, Audley Nichols, William Normandin, Allen Owen, W. B. Shawler, James Wanless and Hazel Yates, with Mrs. Georgetta Russell giving the commentary. Mrs. Vern Wheeler is decorations chairman. Luncheon will be served at 11:30 a.m. and reservations may be made through Mrs. Horace Shadle of San Anselmo.

Second-Deck Study Accepted By Board

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors yesterday voted 11-2 to "accept" a $265,000 study of a second deck, but agreed their action in no way revived plans for a lower span.

The board voted last November to defer all further action on a second deck until mass transportation is tried, but that came three months after the study contract was awarded to Ammann and Whitney, New York engineers.

San Francisco directors John E. Dearman and Stephan C. Leonoudakis dissented yesterday, arguing there was no need for a vote to accept a study for which the district already had contracted.

Leonoudakis termed "outrageously high" the study's estimate that the $53.4 million project would include engineering fees over $5 million.

Leounoudakis also questioned that $715,000 would be needed for additional bridge district personnel during the three-year construction period.

With the proposed second deck shelved for now, directors agreed to consider another approach to the transportation problem in a special meeting of "a committee of the whole" at 10 a.m. Friday in the administration building at the toll booth plaza.

Board president John E. Nelson of Mendocino County said the committee would consider a proposal by Marin Transit District directors to create a new committee to prepare within 60 days "an interim transit program." The committee, to be known as the Transit Task Force, would be an extension of the technical committee now serving the Tri-Partite Transportation Committee set up by the Marin district, San Francisco supervisors and bridge directors.

Marin Transit District directors proposed that the new committee's program include a "substantial improvement of a bus system" and a feasibility study of ferries.

Golden Gate Bridge District Board Also:

LEGISLATION — Voted to oppose legislation by Sen. John F. McCarthy and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, both San Rafael Republicans, to dissolve the bridge district and replace it with a Golden Gate Authority to administer all Bay Area bridges.

REPAIRS — Referred to district engineer Robert E. Shields a request by Leonoudakis that a prompt review be made of repairs found necessary by Ammann and Whitney at an estimated cost of $5.1 million.

WALDO SIGNS — Appropriated $7,528 as the district's share with the state Division of Highways of financing two changeable radio-controlled signs on the Waldo approach.

AIR CONDITIONING — Voted to continue withholding $12,000 as final payment to Arntz Bros., general contractor for the $400,000 remodeling of the administration building, pending elimination of defects reported in the air conditioning system.

INSURANCE — Voted to pay $50 a week during the present strike of armored car employees to cover additional insurance premium because bridge district officers are transporting toll receipts during the strike.

BIDS — Received a low bid of $3,208 from Weeks-Howe-Emerson Co. of San Francisco for four safety nets, and of $7,541 from W. R. Grace and Co. of San Francisco to furnish expansion joint seal and lubricant material. Both were referred to Shields because they were less than half the prices bid by other firms.

SECRET — Held a two-minute meeting closed to the public. Leonoudakis requested the meeting "for the purpose of a hiring," and said afterward that no action had been taken.

Ross Pupil Is Essay Winner

Kimberly Harrington of Ross School has won grand prize in a liberty essay contest sponsored by Marin Masonic lodges and the county schools office.

Miss Harrington will have a choice of gifts, which include a $100 savings bond.

Runners-up in the annual contest were Vickie Parlan of Coleman School, San Rafael; Caitlan Hurt of Homestead School, Mill Valley, and Sharon Bennett of Hamilton School, Novato.

Trophies will be presented to the students for their school at a dinner May 8 at the San Rafael Masonic Lodge. No time has been set.

Boyd was treated at Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco.

A proposal to extend the age limit for the curfew law in San Rafael from 18 to 21 years will be discussed by the San Rafael City Council at 8 p.m. Monday in city hall.

Councilmen will also consider changing the time for the curfew to be enforced from 11 p.m. to 10 p.m.

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said the more stringent curfew law is being considered because of complaints of youths loitering at the courthouse in San Rafael and at the Northgate Shopping Center.

Also on Monday's agenda is a report from Andersen about a request from the Housing Authority of Marin to subsidize housing for senior citizens on low incomes.

Concert April 7

The Marin Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Sandor Salgo, will present the last concert of its season at 8 p.m. April 7, not Thursday, as reported in the Independent-Journal. The concert will be in the College of Marin gymnasium.

Right in this very house while she was filming "Petulia." So if you want to live like a movie star, see this superlative contemporary home, designed by Esherick and landscaped by Hanamoto. Space has been utilized excitingly by the architect — 20 ft. ceilings, look-thru rooms — and the magnificent bay and mountain views are on display in every room. Imaginative use of woods include the mellow Hemlock paneling in most rooms, random plank oak flooring and redwood for the exterior. Stone mosaics form fireplace, garden steps and patio surrounding an intimate pool. 3 bdrm., 2 bath + separate art studio-guest house. $115,000. Eves. 435-1590

$250,000 Asked For Injuries

A 22-year-old Mexico City woman asked $250,000 damages in Marin Superior Court yesterday from a car rental agency and the driver of the car in which she was riding when injured Sept. 24 on Highway 17, near San Quentin Prison.

Alice Lopez-Fernandez charged in a suit that the driver, Salvador Romero, 34, of San Diego County, was incompetent and unfit to safely drive the car.

Continental Rent-A-Car of San Francisco should have known this and refused to rent him the car, her suit alleged.

She asked $250,000 general damages, plus an unspecified amount for medical damages and loss of income.

Miss Fernandez suffered a back injury when the car hit the center divider, skidded and rolled, flying over a barbed wire fence and landing in a ditch. She was thrown from the car, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Chinese Dollars Draw U.S. Frown

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Bureau of Customs yesterday instructed its officers to be on the lookout for illegally imported "Chinese dollars" — coins similar in size to the U.S. silver dollar.

The coins, produced in China during the first quarter of this century, have been coming into the country mostly by mail, the bureau said in a statement.

Customs law prohibits imports of the coin except under license from Foreign Assets Control.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Bloodshot Eyes That Clear Up After Victim's Awake A While

VAN DELLEN

D. H. writes: "I feel fine, except for one symptom. Every morning my eyes are terribly bloodshot. They clear up after breakfast when I move about for an hour or two. My eyes are sensitive to strong light.

"After too much TV, they become red, but this is not the case every morning. Could this have any connection with the fact that I had a hysterectomy? The doctor prescribed new glasses but could give no reason for the redness. Should I go to another eye doctor or see a general practitioner?"

THE KEY to this problem centers about the observation that the redness clears up after this woman moves about for an hour or two. This eliminates the possibilty of an ocular infection, glaucoma, or a more serious cause of bloodshot eye.

These conditions do not disappear during the day and return at night. In addition, there is no relationship between removal of the uterus (hysterectomy) and bloodshot eyes.

WHEN THE REDNESS subsides after being up in the morning, posture or sluggish circulation may play role. The congestion in the whites of the eyes may be likened to stuffiness that develops in the nose or sinuses after lying down.

Many people complain of blockage of the right nostril when resting on the right side and vice versa. This symptom also disappears after being up and about.

Allergy may also be considered, especially when the individual is sensitive to a cosmetic or cleansing agent applied to the face just before retiring. Irritants in the bedroom air may be causative.

THE SAME CAN be said of heavy drinking or smoking prior to going to bed. Viewing television or reading late into the night is another possibility.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompaines request to the I-J.)

CAN FLU RECUR?

Mark writes: I have had a severe bout of A2 influenza. Could this type of flu strike again?

REPLY

Temporary immunity occurs. If flu strikes again, you may never know which type is responsible unless specific tests are done. There are three main groups of influenza viruses (A, B, and C). The A-type is subdivided into three sub-groups: Ao, A1, and A2 (Asian). During an outbreak, keep up your resistance and get plenty of sleep.

TYPES OF RHINITIS

L. C. writes: Is there more than one type of rhinitis? May nose is constantly congested. A friend told me that my parakeet may be the cause of the trouble.

REPLY

Rsinitis is an inflammation of the nose and may stem from an infection, irritation, or an allergy. Your parakeet may be at fault. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on vasomotor rhinitis.

PULMONORY FIBROSIS

J. A. M. writes: What is pulmonary fibrosis and how serious is it?

REPLY

Pulmonary refers to the lungs and fibrosis is scarring. The condition usually follows chronic infections and irritations. The normal elastic lung tissue is replaced with scarred tissue, which, in turn, reduces the vital capacity of the breathing apparatus.

HERNIA FROM PILLS?

K. M. writes: Could hernia be an indirect result of taking diet pills?

REPLY

No. The most common type of hernia (inguinal) stems from an inherent weakness of the abdominal wall in the groin.

Today's Health Hint—

Brush the teeth after eating candy.

CATARACT SURGERY AT 90

E. P. writes: My doctors tell me a cataract is forming im my eye. I am 90 years old and wonder if it would be advisable to have surgery now or to wait. When is the peoper time for this procedure?

REPLY

Surgery is needed when practical vision is lost. See your opthalmologist regularly for instructions on this ailment.

QUINIDINE FOR HEART

G. W. writes: What is quinidine and how important is it for my heart?

REPLY

Quinidine is used to lessen the irritability of the heart, especially when the beat is irregular.

FOLK MASS CHOIR—Linda Scatena (front, left) and the young folk mass choir get ready to offer a song during a Sunday service at St. Sebastian's Catholic Church on Bon Air Road in Kentfield.

THE LEADER—Linda Scatena, a senior at Marin Catholic High School, directors her folk youth group in the choir loft of St. Sebastians Catholic Church. The choir sings on alternating Sundays.

'HERE WE ARE . . .'

Youths Bring Folk Music Into Mass

"Here we are all together as we sing our song joyfully. Here we are joined together as we pray we'll always be . . ."

On alternating Sundays, either at the 8:30 or 10:30 a.m. mass at St. Sebastian's Catholic Church on Bon Air Road in Kentfield, music of the Italian masters is relaced by such lilting words as these to the accompaniment of simple guitar chords.

It's a type of happening that has been taking place at St. Sebastian's for the past two months with the full blessing of Rev. Howard M. Rasmussen, the church's pastor, and growing audience participation.

And the driving force behind it is Linda Scatena, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dismo J. Scatena of Greenbrae.

The Marin Catholic High School senior and a group of her friends formed a religious folk group called "Sodality" at the school last year.

According to Linda, the words were taken from records, mostly religious folk ones.

The group proved so successful Linda decided to see if the folk music could be blended into the mass. She started with a group of 10 two months ago. Today St. Sebastian's choir loft is full of youths helping her out on the alternating Sundays.

"The words of the music mean so much," Linda commented after last Sunday's mass. "You just can't help but feel them."

And Father Rasmussen echos Linda's enthusiasm.

"Two or three older members thought of it as a jazz mass, but after they heard the words, they said they caught the spirit of the youth and were able to sing the words very easily," he said.

"It's a great idea. The youth leading the way," he added.

The songs are in close harmony with different parts of the mass. The sing "We Are One in the Spirit" was offered last Sunday during Holy Communion.

The words go: "We are one in the spirit, we are one in the Lord; We are one in the spirit, we are one in the Lord. And we pray that our unity may one day be restored.

"And they'll know we are Christians by our love, by our love. Yes, they'll know we are Christians by our love . . ."

Experimentation of this type, especially by the church's youth would have been unheard of in the Catholic Church a decade ago.

It has arrived, however, due largely to the mid-20th Century outlook of Pope John XXIII, who called the church to reform during his short reign. J. W.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Church of the Nazarene reports that in 1967 its membership increased 20,470 to 453,187, and its Sunday school enrollment rose 57,000 to a total of 983,525.

Rev. Baker Will Be At Tiburon Church Tomorrow

Rev. Wesley C. Baker, former pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of San Rafael, will be the pulpit guest at the 9 and 11:15 a.m. services tomorrow at the Westminister Presbyterian Church, 240 Tiburon Boulevard, in Tiburon.

Reverend Baker, who resigned his Marin post last summer, is secretary for the Commission on Ecumenical Mission and Relations for the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., with headquarters in New York. He is presently on a tour of the western U.S.

Moderator's Views On Racism, Poverty

By JAMES E. WILLIAMS

Racism and poverty are two of the church's most pressing issues, according Rev. Eugene Smathers, moderator of the 179th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church.

"Most White Americans simply don't believe that a racial revolution is confronting us," the Tennessee pastor told an open meeting Tuesday night at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo.

Alarmed at what was discovered in the recent report on last summer's civil disorders, Reverend Smathers said the church's national headquarters is presently preparing a general letter to all Presbyterians on the critical racial issue.

Billing his report, "The Church as the Moderator Sees It," the 60-year-old Appalachian pastor sees the church's Confession of 1967 as a tool help tackle racism and poverty.

"It is simply 'third force evangelism," spelling out the Christian mission in the fields of race, peace and poverty."

Reverend Smathers compared this third force area to the Laser beam — a tool to search, cleanse and heal the infection, what ever it might be.

The problem of poverty is a close one to the minister who is serving as his church's ambassador and spokesman this year.

Ordained in 1932, Reverend Smathers, a native of Kentucky, has spent his entire ministry at Calvary Presbyterian Church at Big Lick, Tenn., in the heartland of one of the nation's largest rural poverty areas."

"The national government discovered Appalachia in the 1930s, forgot us and then refound us in the War on Poverty," he said.

While his report concerned his findings on the state of the church throughout his travels since last May, Reverend Smathers did make this comment on the Vietnam war to a question from the audience:

"Personally I have no answer to the solution, but our resources seem to be wasted there. Everything is seeming to come to a halt."

In another area — consultation on church union with nine other Protestant bodies, Reverend Smathers said the dialogue is moving forward, slowly, but steady.

Also Reverend Smathers called for a greater emphasis on adult Christian education in the church. He cited the need of such a program to help recapture the declining church membership.

Reverend Smather's appearance at the San Anselmo church was one of two in Marin on Tuesday. Prior to the open session he addressed clergy of the Redwoods Presbytery at a dinner session at San Francisco Theological Seminary.

During a four-day tour of the Synod of the Golden Gate, Reverend Smathers also spoke to groups in San Francisco, Berkeley, Burlingame, San Jose and Monterey.

St. John's Gospel Will Be Given Out

A specially prepared edition of the Gospel of St. John from the American Bible Society translations in a paperback edition, will be distributed to many Novato area residents, according to Rev. Wayne S. Jarboe of the First Baptist Church of Novato.

Church members will distribute it as part of the church's preparation for an encounter crusade scheduled next month.

First Rites Set Tomorrow In New Mill Valley Church

Regular services will be held for the first time tomorrow in Mill Valley's new Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church, Rev. John J. O'Brien, pastor, has announced.

Masses will be held at 7 a.m., 8:15 a.m., 8:15 a.m., 9:30 a.m., 10:45 a.m., and noon.

The opening climaxes nearly 15 years of planning and construction of the new church complex, which adds the $320,000 sanctuary and a $110,000 rectory to the convent and school.

The 12-sided sanctuary, of brick and cast stone, will hold 900 worshipers compared to 360 who can be seated in the auditorium now used for services.

Ground was broken for the church Nov. 12, 1966. The sanctuary spire, topped by a gold-leafed steel cross, rises 134 feet, making it the highest structure in Marin.

Formal dedication services will be held May 12.

Tamalpais Jinxed?

Redwood Captures Track Meet

Tamalpais track coach Bruce Grant is not a superstitious man but he must have been shaking his head after what happened to his Indians at Redwood High School yesterday.

"Jinx," may have come to his mind after the Indians, for the second straight year, lost their big meet with Redwood, 65-62, in what could have decided the regular season track and field title in the manner that it did last year, when the Giants won by a point.

The way the Indians lost it this time is enough to drive anv man to drinking milk or something.

The Indians needed onlv to win the high jump or score heavily in the event in which thev had springy Floyd Jackson and Leroy Barrow waiting in the wings, an event Redwood has never excelled in.

But up comes Bob Ballou, Redwood's master shot-putter with a 5-11 leap, four inches above his best jump of the season to win in a stirring duel over Jackson on fewer misses for the meet victory.

The Giants swept the field events and won a surprising ten events over-all, getting an upset double victory set from Bill Sather, who squeezed by Rick Hewitt of Tam in both hurdles events.

Ballou won the shot-put to join Allan Lee, Tam's super-sprinter in the double win circle.

Lee came in with a 10-flat time in the 100 as he and a healthy Luther Brown went one-two in the sprints while the Indians won both relays.

But it wasn't quite enough.

The tough-luck Drake Pirates ended a disastrous week which saw them lost three meets, all by close margins, by bowing to San Rafael, 76-61.

Herb Rowland sparked the Bulldog victory with a triple win day taking the hurdles events and the long jump.

The Bulldogs also scored heavily in the sprints, with Mike Pederson and Dave Bariski while Drake dominated the field events.

In the day's other meet, Novato knocked off Terra Linda, 68-59, despite a sweep of the hurdles by Trojan ace Lowell Harris and a doubles day by Tom Flautt, who took the 880 and 440.

Darrel Walton clipped under the 10-minute mark for the second time this season in the two-mile, beating Trojan distance ace Bob Bunnell with a 9:54.5 time.

The Hornets also dominated the discus and shot while splitting the relays with Terra Linda.

Giants Directors Hold Multi-Winning Optimism

PHOENIX — "What was the last team to have four 20-game winners in the same season?" asked Shirley Gray, a member of the board of directors of National Exhibition Co.

The San Francisco Giants are owned by National Exhibition Co., whose directors, excluding Horace Stoneham, are not well known to the public.

But each spring they assemble in Arizona for one of their four annual meetings and, of course, stay around to watch Cactus League exhibition games.

What they have seen this spring has prompted them to the kind of optimism implied by Gray's provocative question.

No Foursomes Exist

Actually, there has never been a National League team that had four 20-game winners in one season. The Pirates of 1902, the Giants of 1904, 1905, 1913 and 1920, and the Reds of 1923 had three 20-game winners. One record book says the White Sox of 1920 had four 20-game winners.

With this data researched for him, Gray posed his next question: "What would the odds be on our four starters winning 20 apiece this year?"

For the answer to that Gray was referred to Lloyds of London or the Nevada bookies.

It's A Pretty Dream

It's nice to dream sweet dreams but even entertaining such thoughts about Juan Marichal, Mike McCormick, Gaylord Perry and Ray Sadecki is really getting far out.

Of the four starters, Marichal is the only proven 20-game winner in more than one season. If he had not pulled a hamstring in August last year, Marichal undoubtedly would have won 20 for the fifth consecutive season.

But McCormick readily acknowledges that he still is a pitcher who must prove himself notwithstanding his 22 wins last season. It was the first time in his major league career that McCormick cracked the 20-game circle and he not only was voted the National League Cy Young Award but also the Comeback Title.

Like McCormick, Perry and Sadecki have won 20 in only one previous season. Perry won 21 in 1966. Sadecki won 20 in 1964 when he was still with the Cardinals.

UC Report May Result In Changes

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A fact-finding committee recommended yesterday that the University of California's athletics department make "a determined effort to recruit minority group personnel to its coaching and administrative and training staffs."

Pete Newell, athletic director who presented the report, told the Associated Press no changes in the coaching staffs are contemplated, but said the university may hire one or more Negroes as assistant coaches.

Newell said California has one of the smallest coaching staffs, numerically, of any major university, and could increase its staff.

The committee was appointed by Chancellor Roger Heyns of the Berkeley campus to investigate black Athletes' charges that Negro athletes were discriminated against.

In answer to demands by the Negro organization that three coaches be fired, the committee recommended "that each coach be prepard to assume the responsibility of acting as ombudsman for any athlete when the need arises."

Two months ago the 40 black Athletes on the university's varsity athletic teams issued an eight-point demand, including social, economic and housing equality and the discharge as incompetent or biased of head basketball coach Rene Herrrias, football assistants Bill Dutton and Joe Marvin and of Pat Farran, athletic business manager.

The committee said it "discovered that while specific charges were made, there also existed a general problem which involved practices and procedures that, in many instances, affected white as well as black athletes.

"The committee also became conscious that some specific charges were primarily reflective of the racial problems now being faced in the large society."

"It is because of thes problems that Negro students come to the Berkeley campus with antenna sensitive to racial discrimination. What they perceive is sometimes hard to prove. But the affect of their preceptions are none the less real," the report continued.

Wild Warriors Send Hawks In A 3-1 Hole

Last-Second Mullins Shot Pulls It Out

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "We're back where we were when the playoffs started," said an elated Bill Sharman, coach of the San Francisco Warriors.

"The Hawks are the underdogs now."

The Warriors took a 3-1 lead in the their best-of-seven playoffs last night with a 108-107 victory over St. Louis on Jeff Mullins' 15-foot shot with six seconds left.

The playoffs switch to Washington University in St. Louis Sunday with the Warriors needing one victory to end the season for the Hawks, Western Division winners by a wide margin in the regular National Basketball Association season.

"That was the most important shot of my career," said Mullins, who has been the Warriors' high scorer in every playoff game. He scored 35 Friday night to go with 29, 33 and 33 in the other games.

"I wished I had a better angle," said Mullins. "Paul Silas almost blocked it. But I'll take it."

The Warriors breezed to a 65-49 halftime lead before 12,325 partisan fans in the Oakland Arena, but surrendered the least at 97-95 on a shot by the Hawks' Len Wilkens with five minutes left.

The lead changed hands six times in the next three minutes, with the Warriors holding a 106-103 margin with 30 seconds left.

Don Ohl of the Hawks put in a 25-footer and scored again when Joe Caldwell stole the ball, making it 107-106 for St. Louis.

Ohl missed a 30-footer after Mullins hit his shot. "We didn't get many shots," said St. Louis Coach Richie Guerin, who for the second time in the playoffs kept the dressing room locked for 30 minutes after the game.

"We lost the ball 41 times on turnovers," he added.

Zelmo Beaty, who was held scoreless for all but three minutes of the first half, led St. Louis with 21 points. Rudy LaRusso of the Warriors and Lou Hudson of the Hawks each scored 19.

Sharman, whose Warriors placed third during the regular season, said, "The real key to our success has been the defensive job Al Attles has done on Wilkens." Wilkens has scored 61 points in the four games.

Luck Helping Out Brown

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Ollie Brown is getting an assist from bad luck in his battle with Jesus Alou for the San Francisco Giants' rightfield job.

The bad luck has gone to Alou the Giants' leading hitter last year with a .292 average.

He was hospitalized briefly yesterday after being hit below the left ear by a pitch from Cleveland's Tom Gramly in a game won by San Francisco, 6-5.

X-rays showed no broken bones. Alou missed two games earlier in spring training when he crashed into the fence while making a catch against the Chicago Cubs.

Rookie Cesar Gutierrez scored the winning run in the eighth when Cleveland catcher Ken Suarez dropped a throw from the outfield.

The Giants got 11 hits, the big blow a three-run homer in the first by Willie McCovey.

They got two more runs in the sixth on a walk by McCovey, a single by Brown, a wild throw and a sacrifice.

The Indians scored twice in the first on a single by Joe Azcue. A single by Larry Brown, Vern Fuller's double and a sacrifice produced two more in the second.

The Indians tied it at 5-5 in the eighth on singles by Brown, Vic Davalillo and Willie Smith.

Ray Sadecki had one of his poorest spring performances on the mound, giving up four runs on eight hits before Frank Linzy relieved him in the eighth.

The Giants met the Los Angeles Dodgers today in Mesa and the two teams go to Phoenix for a game tomorrow.

Robbie Lifts Orioles, Then Takes A Big Fall

Frank Robinson finally got the Baltimore Orioles off the floor and then landed flat on his back—leaving Manager Hank Bauer in limbo for several anxious hours.

Robinson, the 1966 Triple Crown winner who was seriously injured last season in a baseline mishap, ran a collision course with teammate Chico Fernandez last night as the Orioles bowed to Boston 5-3 at Miami, Fla., for their fourth straight exhibition setback.

The Baltimore superstar, whose first inning homer ended a string of 30 innings during which the Orioles had scored just one unearned run, collided with shortstop Fernandez under a pop fly in the third and was forced to leave the game.

However, preliminary reports indicated Robinson was not hurt badly. He was treated with ice packs for a strained muscle of the lower back.

Pitcher Jose Santiago was the big man for the Red Sox, going the distance for a six-hitter and socking a three-run homer.

Big innings swept the California Angels and New York Mets to runaway victories in other exhibition action.

Aurelio Rodriguez' triple keyed a nine-run ninth inning explosion as the Angels trounced the Chicago Cubs 11-0 at Scottsdale, Airz.

Homers by Ron Swoboda and Jerry Buchek in a six-run sixth inning burst carried the Mets past Detroit 9-1 at Lakeland, Fla.

Oakland's Ramon Webster smashed two long homers, driving in five runs as the A's ended Minnesota's three-game winning streak 7-0 at Orlando, Fla.

Redwood In Swim Shocker

The unbeaten Tamalpais swimmers are no longer unbeaten but San Rafael still is.

Those were the big happenings in the merry Marin Couny Athletic League swim race as Redwood, surprised by Novato earlier in the season, did it to the Indians, winning — 53⅓-41⅔, fractionally speaking.

That knocked Tam down to a 2-1 record, same as Novato and Redwood, while San Rafael was dumping Terra Linda, 68-25, for a surprising 3-0 record and the league lead.

Defending champion Drake finally won its first meet, splashing over Novato, barely, 50-45.

Ken James won two events for the Giants, including the 100 freestyle in a turgid 51.0, while the Averill brothers, Bruce and Chris, accounted for three Tam victories, with Bruce winning a pair of events.

The Giants, however, had plenty of depth, and went one-two in the diving to help their cause.

San Rafael won all but two events in their dumping of the Trojans, with speedy Charlie Collins and Dave Topance leading thew ay.

Ironically, the Bulldogs lost the 400 freestyle relay, the event by which they had two 11th-hour wins earlier.

Six Under 80 As Novato Golf Team Wins Sixth

Novato High's golf team, led by a superb performance by Ray Leach, avenged its only defeat of the year by routing Lincoln of San Francisco, 382-420, at Indian Valley Golf Club yesterday.

While Leach was undisputably the standout, shooting a fantastic 32 on the back nine to finish at 71, he was far from being a one-man show. For five other Hornets carded rounds under 80. That's depth.

Joe Lewis followed Leach with a 76, while Jeff Leisur had a 77 and three others shot 79.

Having disposed of the only team to beat them this season (Lincoln won an earlier match by 18 strokes) the Hornets are "ready for the league season."

Wild Prep Baseball Start

The 1968 Marin County Athletic League baseball race got off in typical fashion with a big, last-inning rally, an upset and a superb pitching performance setting off the race.

Redwood went six scoreless innings with Drake, then erupted for a trickle of five runs in the seventh inning to win, 5-0 at Redwood.

Novato, the team with the worst practice league season record, dumped Marin Catholic, 5-3, with a date against Redwood coming up next.

Mike Timmell hurled the base-stealing Terra Linda Trojans to a three-hit, 5-2 win over Tamalpais.

Drake's veteran hurler Bob Luiz held the Giants in check on two hits over six innings before Redwood hopped on his relief help, with the aid of two errors and one hit, for the winning margin.

The Giants got only four hits, none by usually red-hot Ken Johnson, but the Pirates chipped in with four errors while catcher Don Alvarado got a pair of hits, including a triple.

Mike Terry was the winner for Redwood, with late relief help from Jim Peters. Reliever Stan Lilienquist was the victim in the seventh inning.

The Hornets took the Wildcats without the pitching help of Russ Dillon, but Dillon did help.

Dillon stroked a two-run single in the seventh inning that provided the winning margin after the tying run had scored on an error.

The winner was Steve McNally, who went all the way, striking out nine batters while allowing four hits.

Mark Carbone lost it in relief.

Timmell, the baseball David who shut out mighty Lincoln, didn't get a shutout, but he did strike out 10 batters and drove in a run while the Trojans added six more stolen bases to their repertoire.

The Trojans came up with just five hits, but it was good enough to win.

Jack, Arnie Join Up In Mutual Help Pact

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Rival business tycoons seldom indulge in a game of "You scratch my back and I'll scratch yours," but Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus did exactly that yesterday.

The benefits to these golf millionaires were mutual, too. Both stand to improve their financial status when the $100,000 Greater Jacksonville Open ends tomorrow.

"Jack helped me square up my stance," Palmer told newsmen after shooting a record-equalling 65 yesterday. He took a 36-hole total of 135—two strokes behind leaders Tony Jacklin and Doug Sanders—into today's third round.

Nicklaus echoed Palmer's story and added his own: "After I showed him what he was doing wrong, he turned around and said I had the same trouble," Nicklaus reported. "I changed and it helped my game too."

Nicklaus had to take another drastic step to avoid elimination from the tourney at the halfway point.

"I decided to change my putting style on the last nine," he said. "It couldn't hurt anything. I did exactly the opposite of what I had been doing on my putting, and suddenly everything started to drop."

He was six-under-par 30 on the nine holes for a 36-hole score of 142. So was Ron Cerrudo of San Rafael. Those with 144 or higher didn't get to join the par breakers who qualified to continue.

Palmer was having trouble with his irons and Nicklaus noticed as they practiced that his stance was open. When it was called to his attention, Palmer got himself square with the ball. It brought an immediate improvement.

"I probably changed a total of 10 inches in the distance I moved my left foot forward and my right foot backward," Palmer said. "It's not completely cured yet, but I can get my shots lined up better already."

In the mad rush at par 72 over the 7,221-yard deerwood course, the entire remaining field was within 10 strokes of the leading pair.

Billy Jean Falls To Nancy Richey

NEW YORK — Little Nancy Richey plays Australia's Judy Tegart in the giant-killer women's final tonight in the Madison Square Garden Challenge Trophy Tournament, but the world's tennis fans won't be happy until Nancy gives a return match to Billie Jean King.

The 5-3, 115-pound Miss Richey rallied from one set down and 1-5 in the second, fought off one match point and defeated the heavily favored Mrs. King last night 4-6, 7-5, 6-0.

What made the comeback the more phenomenal was that Miss Richey won the last 12 games in a row against the woman who is rated the world's best, holder of the Wimbledon, U.S. and Australian championships.

"I've never blown one like that before—I just ran out of gas," a dazed Mrs. King said afterward.

NEW YORK—Madison Square Garden Corp. and the National Tennis League signed a five-year contract to promote and develop professional tennis in the United States, Canada, and Mexico.

Killy Gets Another Ski Title

ROSSLAND, B.C. (AP) — Jean Claude Killy, on top of one sporting world, is ready to set out in a bid to conquer another. Maybe.

The dashing, super skier from France, a triple gold medalist in the recent Winter Olympics, clinched his second World Cup title yesterday by winning the slalom at the Red Mountain International Meet.

"It's very sad," commented Killy, who said it was his last race.

However, his coaches said he might compete in the final World Cup races April 5-7 at Heavenly Valley, Calif.

The 25-year-old Killy said after the race he was flying to Detroit to negotiate use of a car for the Le Mans 24-hour race. He intends to race cars until "it is no fun anymore."

MEET THE COACH

Marin Catholic's Fulton Young, Fierce Enthusiast

Larry Fulton, the youthful (28), fullback-looking Marin Catholic basketball coach is like a blast of fresh wind hitting you full force.

He doesn't ooze enthusiasm, he explodes with it.

He is still young enough to toil at his coaching job like a dude on his first horse, still young enough to hero worship, still young enough to roughhouse with the best of his players.

Fulton, who bypassed what he considered more financially rewarding jobs to get into and finally stay in coaching, did it because he likes the work with a capital love.

It may not be practical but it's good for the soul and if you're successful, which Fulton is, it makes you reasonably happy.

"I've seen too many guys I know who make the money and then tell me they wished they had a job like mine because it sounds like fun," Fulton said.

If success means well-being, Fulton is being well. He led the Wildcats to a rousing 10-2, second-place MCAL record in his first year at Marin Catholic this season, a mark that wound up in a nine-game winning streak, just short of catching 11-1 Tamalpais.

In the process he introduced a go-go, lots-of-shooting attack and a team that looked at deficits as if they weren't there.

Beginning with the Wildcats' fourth league game, when Fulton introduced a two-team platoon system, they took off. They scored 94 points against Novato, a school and conference record, they came from 15 down against tall and powerful Redwood to win by five, they trailed Tamalpais by 12 with a little over a quarter to go and won it in overtime, they blew leads right and left and got them back, averaging over 80 points a game in their final three games and over 60 for the season.

Fulton put it simply.

"I feel that the object of the game is to put the ball through the hoop," he said.

Which makes for an exciting brand of basketball, a style the Wildcats were not used to.

Fulton is at first almost difficult to believe.

A back-slapper and fierce handshaker, he talks glowingly about desire, enthusiasm, sportsmanship, courage, the virtues of high school athletics, discipline and good kids with all the fervor of a politician in an election year. If you're an old-fashioned cynic, you want to say "your're putting me on."

But the funny thing is that the overwhelming impression is that Fulton means it. He's sincere. That may make him a refreshing throwback, but one you can respect, and no coach could ask for more.

Fulton is one in a long line of Cal Riemcke products. He played for Riemcke, the Merlin of College of Marin in 1955-56. The association left a deep impression on Fulton, who still seeks out Riemcke for advice and talk in the manner of old friends.

If there is a hero of sorts on Fulton's horizons, it is Riemcke, who has, year after year, turned out winning teams through conditioning and courage.

Fulton is married and the father of two toddler - aged children, a former sportswear employee and a coach at San Rafael Military Academy where he turned out winning football and basketball teams before a squabble over a cadet rebellion, with Fulton on the cadet side, clipped the association.

Fulton, a great believer in discipline, conditioning and running, will not be blessed with the talent he had this year, next year.

But he will have his enthusiasm, and that could carry the Wildcats a long way.

Topping The Topper: A Four-Winner Jockey

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Normally, riding three winners at Santa Anita race track would be worth a headline. But jockey Don Pierce only got second billing.

Jerry Lambert topped Pierce yesterday by riding four horses home in front, three of them longshots and one of them in the $10,000 feature race at a mile and one-sixteenth.

Lambert scored in the feature on Guennie for a payoff of $13.00, $7.00 and $4.60. Guennie came home two lengths in front of Who's Afraid in 1:42 4-5.

Who's Afraid paid $4.20 and $3.00 and third place Attention III, $5.00.

Pierce won the third, fifth and seventh. His respective horses were Shoo Fly, $6.60, Bryn Mawr, $8.80 and Little Flapper, $3.60.

Lambert took the first and second for a daily double payoff of $155.80 on Faithful Ruler and Freddie D.P. His other winner was Chiclero at $24.00 in the sixth.

A Depressing Olympic Cage Camp

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Fatigue, approaching exams, boycott and the pros all may have had an influence in reducing the talent in NCAA warm-ups here this week for the U.S. Olympic team tryouts.

"The six top centers are absent from the tryouts and we may lose more," Pt Newell, chairman of the NCAA Olympics Basketball Selection Committee, said in California yesterday. Newell blamed rivalry between the pro leagues for what he termed wrecking the U.S. Olympics squad.

Those six centers who skipped the tryouts are Elvin Hayes, Houston; Lew Alcindor, UCLA; Westley Unseld, Louisville; Mike Lewis, Duke; Neil Walk, Florida, and Bob Lanier, St. Bonaventure.

Hayes, player of the year, was one of 48 players scheduled to work out here but withdrew at the last moment.

Later this week he signed a contract reported at $400,000 or more for four years with San Diego of the National Basketball Association and turned down a $500,000 offer from Houston of the American Basketball Association.

"We thought we had an agreement with the NBA not to touch the college stars until after the Olympics," Newell said.

Don May of Dayton and John Godfrey, Abilene Christian, came to Indianapolis but soon left. May said he didn't feel he could perform at his best after exhaustive play in the National Invitation Tournament.

No reason was given by Godfrey, although he reportedly was tired from the long basketball season. Unseld said flatly he was weary of basketball.

Alcindor, twice All-American, along with UCLA teammates Mike Warren and Lucius Allen, plus All-American Larry Miller of North Carolina and Walk all said they turned down bids because of academic commitments.

There were reports the Negro boycott for civil rights kept some stars away.

Today is Saturday, March 30, the 90th day of 1968 with 276 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning star is Venus. The evening stars are Mars and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1858, Hyman Lipman received a patent for the first pencil to be equipped with an eraser.

In 1867, Secretary of State William Seward reached an agreement with Russia for the purchase of Alaska for $7.2 million.

In 1945, Nazi troops were forced to retreat along the entire eastern front as Russian forces invaded Austria.

In 1967, 18 Wisconsin school children on a tour in Louisiana were killed when a jet liner crashed into their motel near New Orleans.

A thought for the day: William Makepeace Thackeray said, "next to the very young, I suppose the very old are the most selfish."

HOW TO PLAY

Always Read Opening Lead So You Can Chart Rest Of Action

You don't always have to play a hand with tender loving caution. You may be able to afford some risks because of the way the opponents defend.

OPEN TRUMP

When today's hand was played recently in the French National Selection Tournament, West opened a trump at two tables against the rather ambitious contract of four spades.

At the first table South cautiously let the trump opening ride around to his ten. Then he led the king of hearts to West's ace. West cleverly returned a low diamond.

Now South had a problem. He couldn't afford to draw trumps without ruffing the low heart. South cashed the queen of hearts and ruffed the low heart with the jack of spades. But before South could get back to his hand to draw the last trump West managed to give his partner a diamond ruff. Down one.

POSTPONES FINESSE

At the other table French star Daniel Versini won the first trick in dummy with the king of spades instead of taking the free finesse. "That opening lead can't possibly be away from the queen of trumps," he thought to himself. "The finesse can wait."

CLAIM CONTRACT

Versini next lost the king of hearts to the ace, but no return could hurt. If West cleverly returned a diamond, Versini could ruff a heart with dummy's jack of spades and return the low spade for a finesse with the ten of spades. It was then easy to draw the last trump with the ace and claim the contract.

Oregon Crab Festival Grows And Grows

DUNES CITY, Ore. (UPI)—It will take one and one-quarter tons of crab, 200 pounds of potato salad, 150 pounds of cabbage for cole slaw and 130 loves of French bread to feed hungry visitors attending this year's annual crab feed here.

Back in 1957 when the event started, 600 pounds of crab was enough. This year sponsors have nearly that much in reserve in case the ton and a quarter isn't enough.

Campaign Oratory Sounds Some Frightening Chords

AS THE PRESIDENTIAL primaries take shape, some things which candidates do and say are mighty strange.

"I need your help" to save the country, says Bobby Kennedy, and those of us who lived through the rise of such as Huey Long and Gerald L. K. Smith in America and the rise of Hitler in Europe, get cold chills up and down our spines. Kennedy is no fool. He is smart, educated, informed and experienced. But the emotional pitch of his campaigning is frightening to many of us.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON'S present campaign for renomination recalls Franklin Roosevelt's third term campaign in 1940. World War II was underway in Europe but we were not directly involved. The U.S.A. had a tradition of isolationism. In fact, "isolation" was a derogatory euphenism for neutral. Right-wingers like Gerald L. K. Smith, Father Coughlin and Charles Lindberg preached that we should stay out of Europe's rows and tend to our own problems.

The liberals of that day countered that we had humanitarian responsibilities and ultimately what happened on the other side of the ocean would have a direct effect on each of us here. Tyranny would threaten us, too.

Today, the left-wingers and liberals preach pretty much the same line as the right-wingers of the late '30s, except that it is a different ocean they refer to. Today, it is the right-wingers and conservatives who preach that we have responsibilites abroad and what happens across the sea will ultimately affect each of us here. The liberals say now we should pull out and go home. Those of us who have lived through both periods, tend sometimes to get a bit confused about who is on which side in the argument.

In 1940, F.D.R.'s supporters finally were saying those who opposed the president's policies were disloyal to their country.

In 1968, L.B.J. himself has come powerfully close to saying just about the same.

F.D.R. won in 1940. Can L.B.J. win in 1968?

CONGRESSMAN DON CLAUSEN, who has represented Marin along with the rest of the First District for the past six years, has won nation-wide publicity for his "phase in—phase out" plan for U.S. withdrawal from South Vietnam.

In essence, he suggests that the South Vietnamese and other free Asian nations have not been putting their utmost into the Vietnam war and other efforts to preserve them from Communist take-over. They have been leaving the job up to Uncle Sam.

What should be done, says Clausen, is to "phase in" complete participation by South Vietnam and other Asian nations, while "phasing out" U.S. military commitment there.

On the one hand, it seems like a reasonable and logical plan.

On the other hand, it too recalls the cry of the late 1930s that England and France got themselves into their pickle; we should stay our and let them get themselves untangled from their own mess.

"THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE for victory," said General MacArthur little more than a decade ago. He was "fired" by President Truman. General MacArthur received a hero's welcome when he returned to the U.S. from the Far East. President Truman was praised by no one and was widely criticized and condemned for firing General MacArthur.

Today, L.B.J. sounds at times like MacArthur. L.B.J. gets no prase; he is widely criticized and condemned.

To say the least, it is all very confusing.

To the unbiased observer (if one can observe today's affairs without bias) there is only one thing certain:

Those who are so certain they have all the answers and those with simple, easy solutions are the least likely to be ultimately proved correct.

We are in a mess and campaign oratory isn't likely to contribute much to realistic, workable solution.

Bouquets And Brickbats

BRICKBAT to Parke-Davis for advertising chloromycetin as "a name you can count on when it counts," and to the Marin Medical Society for accepting the advertisement for full page display in the current issue of its bulletin. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration last month imposed further restrictions on chloromycetin because doctors had continued to use it despite warnings it can produce one of the most painful deaths known to man — warnings running back several years.

BRICKBAT to Thomas T. Storer for staging a San Francisco "press conference" to blast the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District and call for its dissolution. We thought Storer was running for re-election as Fourth District supervisor in Marin County. Is he a candidate for office in San Francisco?

BOUQUET to the League of Women Voters, whose local units have produced a series of pro-and-con reports on ballot measures that will be on April 9 municipal election ballots — a genuine service to the voters.

BRICKBAT to Clay Barham, candidate for Republican nomination for Assembly, for telling the Marin Republican Central Committee he could not say why he is opposing incumbent William T. Bagley with a reporter present, "but I'd be glad to discuss him with anyone in private." Whispering campaign?

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

THE MEANING OF "EXCUSE"

An excuse is a commodity we should readily grant to others but use sparingly in our own regard.

It is defined as: "A plea or reason exonerating one from a seeming fault; an aplogy or a justification; a pretended reason or ground."

The derivation is simple:"ex" (from) and "causa" (reason). One who seeks an excuse, therefore, is looking for a reason to get out of an embarrassing situation.

Thomas A. Kempis, the 15th century spiritual writer, had little patience with excuses. He said: "We often do ill — and do worse in excusing it."

Excuses can be both reasonable and inevitable. Nobody is perfect, so we have to accept the fact that we and others will be unable to do everything successfully.

But it is best in most cases for us to admit our error simply, without trying to cover up.

The Lord wants us to spend more time and effort getting things done than thinking up reasons why they cant be done. At the same time, He expects us to be sympathetic with the legitimate excuses of others.

"We who are strong ought to bear with the failings of the weak."

(Romans 15:1)

Guide me in all I think, speak and do, Holy Spirit, so that I am less in need of excuses.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

March 30, 1958

Marin's wettest March in 20 years ended with earth slides that blocked Sir Francis Drake Boulevard below Tocaloma Bridge, a power bloackout on Point Reyes peninsula, and collapse of a portion of Forest Avenue in San Anselmo into Corte Madera Creek.

Residents of Almonte, Homestead and Tamalpais Valleys and Mill Valley discussed formation of a Richardson Bay Recreation District.

20 YEARS AGO

March 30, 1948

A cheering throng of about 5,000 fans crowded into the Southern Pacific depot in San Francisco to welcome home the College of Marin basketball team, junir college champions of America.

Old Courthouse Worth Preserving

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I'm sure you are well aware of the discussion which is going on over this old structure on Fourth Street. It is one of Marin County's oldest, most interesting and best preserved historical structures.

I believe it would be to the interest of the area and the residents — present and future — of Marin County to restore the structure to its original appearance, with its surrounding park.

With the costly, and still-in-the-building new Civic Center I believe Marin County officialdom could effect the preservation of this structure without undue monetary stricture.

I believe the officials of Marin County, by preserving this historical monument, would show themselves to be aware of the broad interests and responsiblities of their office — as concerned not only with modernity, utilitarianism and efficiency, but with due respect and enduring interest in a past which has contributed importantly to the very present opportunities and material success they themselves are enjoying.

That which makes the historicity of a nation great is the gracious combination of the old with the new.

Questions About Dogs And Hippies

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Yesterday (March 25) was a day I will long remember. First at 3:30 p.m. as I walked by Hippie Greyhound depot I was nipped by a mongrel who was fighting with a gray, small poodle, to the delight of the young hippies who clutter up the sidewalk. If I hadn't used my heavy purse to shoo dogs it could have been worse. I thought we had a leash law in Mill Valley.

Why are these hippies allowed to clutter up street? Why is the police department prohibited from their job of policing? . . . Why do parents, city, state, federal officials give in to the youngsters? Why are grownups afraid to stand for the good, clean living that used to be? . .

At the park and recreation meeting last night, the Mime Troupe from San Francisco appeared asking for a permit to put on their shows at our Old Mill Park. . .

Do we taxpayers want this type of performers who would bring in the Haight-Ashbury type requiring more policing, more maintenance? We have good clean talent at our high school. They could put on some good programs, using earned money for their benefit, building a good-size pool at Project 17, etc. This Mime Troupe is to appear before city council at their next meeting, April 4. . .

Prefers Amateurs In Government

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I want to answer a letter from Larkspur in Saturday's paper (March 23).

In the first place I'm sure all councilmen do not vote themselves $150 a month and shouldn't.

It is more likely to be the professional politicians who are apt to vote themselves high salaries as we know from experience (certain politicians in the Civic Center).

Personally I think it a very refreshing thing to have a knowledgeable amateur elected — one who knows what is going on but is not a cut and dried politician.

Mr. Michael A. Rosen believes that we should have a central government at the Civic Center. Well, I think that would prove to be more expensive and believe that people are getting fed up with professional politicians and administrators who say one thing and do another thing.

Hearing Set On Bill Vital To Bay Control

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

A bill to close a major loophole in legislation that created the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission — a loophole that could permit open season on bay fill next year — will have its first hearing at 9:30 a.m. next Wednesday in room 5007 of the State Capitol.

The loophole, discovered only recently, is that the commission's power to deny fill permits expires when it makes its final report to the Legislature in January — before the Legislature has a chance to create a new agency to control bay fill.

The bill, introduced by Sen. George Miller Jr., D-Martinez, would extend the commission's permit power until the commission itself goes out of business 90 days after the 1969 regular legislative session ends.

THE HEARING next week will be before the Senate governmental efficiency committee, chaired by Sen. Richard J. Dolwig, R-San Mateo. The only other Bay Area legislator on the committee is Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael. He has not taken a stand on the bill, which was introduced Feb. 5.

Many persons seem to assume that the bill will have clear sailing. It's only a technical correction, they say.

Quite to the contrary, passage of the bill in no way can be considered automatic. The loophole presents an excellent chance for an end run around the Legislature's intent in 1965 to end piecemeal filling of the bay.

Passage then of the legislation that created the commission took the support of an aroused citizenry. This is no less true now, if this vital bill is to pass.

A "KENNEDY" BUTTON was spotted the other day in Sacramento on an unlikely lapel — that of Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael.

"It's a simple thing," Bagley explained. "I think the best thing for Nixon would be to have Bobby Kennedy win the California primary and then fail to get the Democratic presidential nomination in Chicago," he told Capitol News Service.

"The Democrats in this state would be so confused they wouldn't know which way to go," he said.

Congressman's Mail— Heavy With Protest

By EVERETT McKINLEY DIRKSEN

Year by year, the population of our country grows, the governmental agencies expand, the literacy and the interest of the citizen increase, and the letters to members of Congress multiply. You just wouldn't believe how they have multiplied and you would be astonished at some of the things citizens write about.

In 1935, when Henry T. Rainey of Illinois was the speaker of the House of Representatives, he told me of the days when neither mail nor callers at his office were great in number and this happy situation gave him frequent opportunity to go to the Congressional Library where he could do needed research on legislative matters.

TIMES HAVE certainly changed. The mail that comes these days to a congressman's office from his constituents — and others — is a continuing blizzard that barely allows him enough time to shovel the walks, so to speak. There doesn't seem to have been any letup in the incoming mail since the time when President Truman recalled General MacArthur from Toyko and when the Government Operations Committee was conducting a kind of trial of Sen. Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin. My office received letters then at the rate of 16,000 a day for quite a few days. It fairly drove staff members into a tizzy.

Both senators and members of the House have the continuing problem of how to handle such quantities of mail, of taking the time to analyze the content and of sending out replies. What does this mail say that reaches my office by the thousands every day?

SOME OF IT — actually, a whole lot of it — contains heavy-handed thoughts and some accusations. And I find in some of the letters welcome dainty thoughts, too.

The flow of letters on Vietnam saddens and roils and frustrates. When a mother writes that her only son is fighting the Viet Cong and right down the street a neighbor's two sons live at home while they attend college, I don't know what to say to her. Will she be comforted if I say: "It is war and there have always been inequities in war"?

A boy writes from Pennsylvania. He has read that I was an avid baseball fan and he asks if I know how his Little League baseball team can get some new uniforms. Now here is a situation where I can pass the buck. I pass the letter on to Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, saying: "Look, Hugh, this is your constituent." And he takes it gladly.

Many citizens write to urge quick approval of more Social Security benefits. Others oppose a new tax bill. There is a constant flow of letters dealing with the uneasy situation in the Near East. Some letters deal with school legislation or prayer in public schools.

And every morning there is the mail that criticizes foreign aid, the poverty program, congressional junkets abroad, internal security, the consular treaty with Russia and election reform. Then there is the mail from men who seek discharge from military service, if possible.

THE BULK of the mail comes from protest. If people are satisfied and happy they don't write. Except, perhaps, people like the lady from Park Ridge, Ill., who writes that I am not conservative enough for her. She sends me a postcard nearly every day. But although she may take me to task, as she often does in firm language, she is never abusive.

I have a special way of handling abusive mail, the mail that is made up all too generously of such epithets as "liar" or "cheat," "swine" or worse. I am seldom peremptory, but to writers of abusive mail, I can only reply: "Dear sir (or madam): Thanks."

The daint ytouch comes quite often in letters from people everywhere who like marigolds and who believe that I should have some of their marigold seed. You can be sure that in such cases I do not pass the buck.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Kennedy Ready To Spend $5 Million On Campaign

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Five million dollars is being budgeted by Sen. Robert Kennedy's planners and managers to finance his sky's-the-limit drive for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Actually, they think his belatedly announced campaign will probably cost more — possibly as much as $1 million more. But there will be no stinting. Whatever is needed will be forthcoming.

Most of it will come from family coffers. Close relatives of the mop-haired candidate are initially chipping in $500,000 each — and as much more later as required. That's what they did in his late brother's 1960 nomination battle, which insiders then estimated cost more than $7 million.

OF THE PROJECTED $5 million budget, $2 million is earmarked for California.

The June 4 primary there is crucial to Kennedy. At stake are the state's 174 convention delegates. It is imperative he capture them to reinforce the large bloc he expects to garner from New York's 190 delegates. This would give him a powerful hand to put over his underlying strategy.

That is to eliminate Sen. Eugene McCarthy as a convention competitor and take over his "dump Johnson" delegates.

In Nebraska and Oregon, the other two primaries in which Kennedy will run, $500,000 each is scheduled as of now. It's likely this will be ancreases as the already supercharged melee of delegates intensifies.

McCarthy's plans call for spending $300,000 in each of these states — and more if he can get it. His resounding New Hampshire showing cost close to that. It would have wound up in the red, but Howard Stein, president of the big Dreyfus Fund, Inc., paid off some $40,000 in bills.

Stein is now on a leave of absence to head McCarthy's fund-raising operations.

THE OTHER $2 MILLION of Kennedy's projected campaign budget is tagged to woo delegates and back friendly slates in other states. For example:

William Daugherty, bustling South Dakota livestock dealer, has been set for a long time to launch a Kennedy slate of delegates. Asked how much would be needed to finance a delegate slate, he replied, "$25,000 would do the job nicely." The word has now gone to Daugherty to put his plan into motion.

In the District of Columbia, where leaders for McCarthy and Kennedy have combined and put up a joint slate of delegates, the main source of funds will be the ample Kennedy coffers.

SENATOR KENNEDY'S stumping plans defintely include the participation of two glamorous members of his family — his wife Ethel, and Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, widow of his brother.

When and where Jackie will appear is still undetermined. She has told her brother-in-law she is eager to help and is available where deemed best. preliminary discussions have revolved around her being present at one or several big indoor meeting in the crucial California campaign.

Bolinas Lagoon Silting Warning Given Board

If action is not taken to open up the channel draining the west end of Bolinas Lagoon, the channel will disappear and the entire ecology of the western lagoon will be changed.

That warning was issued Thursday night to the Bolinas Harbor District Board by consultant Norman T. Gilroy. A study of the Bolinas Channel showed that heavy silting from the last two winters has filled the channel enough to seriously cut the flow of oxygenated water to the western lagoon.

The silting will proceed faster now because the present buildup will prevent tidal flushing, Gilroy's report said.

The board told Gilroy to investigate possible sources of funds for dredging the channel.

Gilroy said Shovelmire Inc. has developed a lightweight jet dredge and has offered to dredge the channel at cost as a demonstration project. Gilroy said this would cost about $12,000, far less than conventional dredging.

The silting also impedes outflow from Pine Gulch Creek and makes the rod and boat club dock, used by party fishing boats and others, usable only at high tides.

In a report from Dr. Richard Timme, the board learned that the Stinson Beach sandspit and the Bolinas Channel bar from a closed-circuit sand system, which is a "geologic relic."

Timme's study showed the sand builds up onto the sandspit in summer, then is torn off in winter and deposited on the bar. From the bar it circulates into deep water, then onto the sandspit again. There is little downcoast flow of sand.

The board recommended continuing a series of ocean bottom studies. They will be coordinated with other studies including sand tracer tests, a 24-hour channel mouth study, and wave tests.

The Army Corps of Engineers has notified the district that a wave gauge is available and will be set up offshore at no cost.

Lease Agreement Change On Agenda

A proposed change in the lease agreement for development of Mill Valley's small craft harbor will be presented by City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer to the Mill Valley City Council at 8 p.m. Monday in city hall.

Developer Paul B. Fischer early this month declined to sign a proposed agreement and proposed major changes in the lease terms. Balmer at that time would give no details of the changes.

SPEAKER — George R. Williams, executive director of the Tuberculosis and Health Association of California, will address the annual dinner of the Marin Tuberculosis and Health Association at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the San Geronimo National Golf Club. "The Fight to Breathe" will be his topic.

Vandals Damage Costly Violin

A novato house was ransacked and vandalized, a $1,500 violin broken and an undetermined amount of jewelry and other items taken Thursday, police said.

Michael N. Letsos said his house, at 1591 Hill Avenue, was entered while he was gone between 8:30 a.m. and 6:20 p.m. Entry was by cutting a locked screen door and breaking the glass of the back door.

Some jewelry and a watch were taken, but the full loss will not be known until Letsos checks his belongings, according to police.

Three cans of beer were taken from the refrigerator and its other contents thrown throughout the house. Eggs were broken on the walls and ceiling of the living room, according to police.

Police think it was the work of teen-agers.

Probation Given

Donna Maria Zimmer, 22, of 352 Norman Drive, Novato, was placed on a year of probation in Marin Municipal Court yesterday for stealing items worth $14.25 from the Novato Safeway store Feb. 19.

$477,384 To Cal Poly Survivors

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Judgments totaling $477,384 have been awarded to the families of four Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo football players killed in a 1960 plane crash.

The judgments filed yesterday by Chief U.S. District Court Judge Fred Kunzel brought the total awards granted in 16 cases to $611,264.

The crash of an Arctic Pacific Airlines plane in Toledo, Ohio, resulted in 33 suits. Sixteen members of the football team and six other persons were killed. The crash also injured 23 others.

Kunzel found that the federal government was liable for damages because federal air traffic controllers at the Toledo Airport allowed the aircraft to take off in heavy fog. The airlines had been a defendant but went out of business.

Judgments awarded Thursday included $106,656.64 to Dorothy J. Porras, 33, widow of Raymond Porras, and their four children; $108,375.29 to Kay Copeland, 30, widow of Franklin J. Copeland; $126,869.29 to Marlene Austin, 31, widow of Larry B. Austin, and their son, and $135,483.16 to Karen Ann Van Horn, 29, widow of Edward Gary Van Horn, and their two children.

Tiburon Rezoning On Planners Agenda

A request from property owners for rezoning of 38 acres in the Taylor Tract area will be considered at 8 p.m. Monday by the Tiburon Planning Commission, in City Hall.

The zoning is sought to allow half-acre lots. One-acre lots are now required under single-family residential zoning.

A hearing on the downtown plan will not be held because maps have not been made available for study by commissioners, according to Phil V. Scott, development administrator.

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

NEW PRODUCTS — Now a completely solid state AM/FM Multiplex Stereo Tuner Amplifier capable of full stereo performance is available at a very reasonable price. The Sansui Model 400 receiver is packed with features. This unit includes an amplifier with flexible control system, an AM tuner, and an FM multiplex stereo tuner all in one compact design. The amplifier is capable of 60 watts of output power. It features low distortion, less than 1%, at the lower listening levels as well as at full power. The receiver is designed with a transistor protection circuit and quick-acting fuses to completely eliminate the danger of short-circuit damage to the power transistors. The FM tuner section switches from FM mono to FM stereo automatically. A stereo indicator changes in color if the dial crosses a station broadcasting in stereo. The Model 400 features noise filter to eliminate scratch and surface noise; loudness control to automatically compensate for audible balance at low listening levels; stereo head phone jack on front panel; tape monitor circuit; speaker selector switch; meter tuning; and heavy flywheel for smoother tuning. Of course the receiver has complete facilities for a stereo record changer. The 400 is an excellent basic unit for a home stereo music system. The price — only $239.95. All you need to add to this remarkable unit are two speaker systems.

The Sansui Model 2000 is another new AM/FM Multiplex stereo tuner amplifier. This model sports 100 watts of audio output at an unbelievably low watts per dollar value. Not only is the unit capable of high power, but it also contains a very sensitive FM tuning section capable of bringing in clear stereo programs even with very little signal strength at the antenna. With a striking black tuning dial face, Model 2000 is one of the most attractively styled receivers ever produced by Sansui. Whatever function the receiver is set to perform is readily seen through this black face. For instance, if it is set to receive a broadcast, the entire tuning dial is illuminated along with the proper function such as AM Mono, FM Mono or FM Stereo. If functions such as Tape, Phono or Aux are selected, the face remains black with only the function visible. The receiver has a two-tone appearance, black on the upper half and brushed silver-gold on the lower half. This deluxe Model 2000 sells for only $299.95. JULIE BYWATER of Mill Valley puts on the new leg brace developed at the University of California Medical Center that has meant so much in her young life. Crippled by paralysis of the leg muscles since she was a baby, Julie now finds she can run and play very much like any other 11-year-old.

It's A Whole New Life For Julie

Brace Permits 11-Year-Old To Enjoy Childhood Games

Everyone dreams the dreams of childhood, but only now are they becoming a reality for 11-year-old Julie Bywater of Mill Valley.

Crippled from paralysis of the leg muscles from an unknown cause since she was three months old, Julie has spent long hours of her childhood visiting doctors, being examined, probed and studied.

ONLY IN the past year, thanks to a revolutionary new brace developed with funds derived from Easter Seal research, has Julie been able to lead a life where, as she explains it, "my two favorite hobbies are skipping rope and hopping on a pogo stick."

The brace, developed by the Bio-Mechanic Laboratory of the University of California Medical Center, offers an entirely new concept in braces.

"We started working on the brace in 1960," John Campbell, one of the research men who developed the brace explained, and since then it has undergone numerous changes. Unlike the more familiar type of brace with its steel rods, this new one is hinged at the ankle to a semicircular metal yoke that fits loosely around the heel of the shoe and allows the patient to move in a side to side motion."

THE OLD brace, in addition, would often make a youngster's leg and foot numb, while the new brace has virtually opened new doors for Julie.

"As an example,' Mrs. Karl Raadik, Julie's mother, said. "Julie was interested in taking neighborhood ballet lessons but did not continue with the work. Since the new brace arrived, she can't wait to go to her weekly class and there is a fine possibility that her entire group may appear in a scene during this year's Mountain Play."

A student at Marin Terrace School, Julie leads a most active life. She is studying flute, is in-

Another Victory For Easter Seal Research

Revolutionary New Brace Opens Up Whole New Life For Marin Child

terested in art, and, as she proudly said, "Sometimes I enter races at school and a lot of times I even win."

JULIE HELPS around the house with her other sisters, Gayle, 15, Debbie, 14, Jan—Julie's twin, who is 11), and Karla, 3.

"We had gone to private doctors for years," Mrs. Raadik explained, "and then went to the U.C. Medical Center. At the clinic doctors studied numerous children and finally selected Julie for the new brace. There are only a few youngsters in the country who are fortunate enough to be using this new brace."

The Easter Seal campaign in Marin is currently in its 28th year with a goal set this year at $27,000. Funds raised are used to help Marin's more than 300 crippled children and adults in such a wide range of activities as therapy, equipment, recreation, resident camping, research and professional training.

THE THEME this year is to "give at home" with so many residents in the county working elsewhere and that old wheeze, "I gave at the office" being just a bit too easy to use.

Deborah Simmons, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Audrey Simmons of Terra Linda, is serving as this year's "theme girl."

Those wishing to help the current Easter Seal campaign may do so by contacting Easter Seal offices at 555 Magnolia Avenue, Larkspur.

"RESEARCH from Easter Seal financing developed this new brace," John Campbell asserted, "but this is only the beginning. The brace is being changed. Veterans groups are interested in it. And new research and development will realize entirely new possibilities and potentialities."

For proof of the effectiveness of Easter Seal research, one only has to ask—or watch—11-year-old Julie Bywater. If she is not busy at ballet lessons, you'll find her hopping on that pogo stick or running races at school. It wasn't always that way. For Julie, it's a whole new life.

THANKS TO her new leg brace made possible by Easter Seal-financed research, the pogo stick, or even footracing, is no longer beyond the abilities of paralysis victim Julie Bywater. The happy Mill Valley child is one of a very few fortunate ones in the entire country equipped with the new brace. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

"Where Knowledge from the Past Helps Build for the Future"

A Professor With The Broad View

Bennet Skewes-Cox Heads Unique Experimental Class

Here's a man of nearly 50 who beats the kids to the punch by deploring a two-generation gap!

He's a member of the establishment — yet the kids dig him. They ''rap'' (communicate) with him as a teacher and as a person.

Bennet Skewes-Cox was reared within the traditional value system of our pre-atomic society. Now he's trying desperately to awaken educators and students to what he feels to be the perils inherent in looking at today's world through the eyes of older leaders who, in turn, he says, have themselves adopted the too-often myopic views of their teachers of yesteryear.

"EDUCATION has lagged far behind the revolutionary speed-up in transport and communication," says this unorthodox professor at San Francisco State's Experimental College.

A long-time resident of Marin, a Navy veteran, and presently also an instructor of a regular course in American government at Hamilton Air Force Base, Skewes-Cox was once associated with the U.S. State Department, has a public accounting practice, and is writing a book about his new experimental course on world affairs, now in its second year at State.

His students agree that it permits mind-expansion and globe-shrinkage — without drugs.

ONE OF those students, Mike Malott, affects a semi-hippie attire, but is not a member of the "flower tribe." He carries a good-sized study load at San Francisco State College and feels he's learned a lot from the interaction of ideas with a teacher who lives in a different world.

"There's a trend in my generation against material possessions," Mike says. "But here's a man who's not messed up by possessions."

He came to the rambling Skewes-Cox country home in Ross with two other participants in the world affairs course, both older, graduate students, to spend a sunny, blossom-scented spring afternoon dissecting the world with the professor and his wife, Mary.

MIKE FEELS he has grasped the premises of beyond-nationalism through the free-wheeling world affairs series, and has gained the ability to look at events and people in what Professor Skewes-Cox calls the "world view."

Michael Moriarty, 28, a former Peace Corps member, took the course last season while working on his master's thesis.

"I learned to be interested in international humanism — not hung up by national egos. I'm now more concerned with Man than with nationalistic men."

THIS CONCEPT is a reflection of Skewes-Cox's basic philosophy that the role of any one individual in his generation and in his part of the world should be studied in relationship to man's existence in all parts of the world.

Michael, who is married to a girl he met in the Peace Corps, plans to return to this life of service in a foreign culture. One of his reasons turns a hot light on the struggle for understanding between youth and U.S. leadership: "As an American, there's no necessity for me to identify with the local officialdom."

Eric Wickham, 25, also married, is a Canadian who frankly admits he's still trying to find himself. He took the world affairs course at San Francisco State's Experimental College "to clear up the vague ideas I'd picked up as to what the world is all about."

ERIC SAYS he is no longer vague. He says positively: "The whole trend has to be turned around, or the whole thing will be stopped."

He and his wife have become Zen enthusiasts to achieve what they regard as a kind of anti-toxin to the accumulating poisons of today's choices in direction.

These students of the pilot course in world affairs will become charter members of a new organization, the Academy of World Studies.

"Why Did My Dress Wrinkle All Over?"

Your dress is made of one of fashion's newest developments, bonded fabrics. Instead of a bulky separate lining, the modern manner is to join two fabrics together giving beauty, lighter weight and usually, wrinkle resistance.

However, sometimes, as in your dress, a garment is distorted through uneven shrinkage. This occurs when one of the two fabrics used has not been treated for shrinkage control.

This trouble can be avoided by checking the dress labels before purchasing it. Make certain that the manufacturer has controlled the shrinkage before the garment is made. He should indicate this fact on the label. If it is not indicated, look out. You may repeat the same trouble you are now experiencing. Return the dress to the store where you purchased it and ask them to make a proper adjustment.

The Professor Introduces A New Approach

INTERNATIONAL in scope, the academy — now being established in the Bay Area by a group headed by Bennet Skewes-Cox — will offer in-depth studies of the interdependence of peoples everywhere and the necessity of communication within and between nations.

A synoptic (broad-wide) approach to world affairs as opposed to the periscopic (narrow-limited) view will permit students anywhere to look at themselves, their cultures, their era within the overall dimensions of time and space; and to establish meaningful empathy with others who may not share their values.

Any attempt to discuss the theory of an international or world system will expose the general ignorance, pessimism, and even fatalism in this field, according to Skewes-Cox. And yet, he points out, "here is a situation that can be changed by man, and only by man."

THE ACADEMY of World Studies will focus greater attention on the future — its possibilities and probabilities— and will press for this kind of forward searching within educational systems around the globe.

Ambitious project? Revolutionary concepts on a world-wide scale?

This impatient academician from Marin asks: "Why not?"

He suggests that while we're probing the moon, we should also clear the cobwebs from the school room.

The Marshall Brothers And Their Town

They Left Their Imprint Upon Tomales Bay Hamlet

By FLORENCE DONNELLY
Independent-Journal Historian

Marshall, the picturesque village on Tomales Bay, bears the proud name of a pioneer Marin County family.

The Marshall brothers were born in Ireland.

Hugh, James and Alexander migrated to the United States in 1849, settling first in Indianapolis, Ind.

A fourth brother, Samuel, soon followed.

HUGH WAS the first to come west, arriving in Marin County in 1852. James, Alexander and Samuel came shortly thereafter.

In West Marin, they were stock dealers and owned a large ranch known as the Marshall Brothers Home Ranch where they raised horses.

It was typical of the adventurous nature and hardiness of the men of the time that two of the brothers drove a herd of cattle and horses from Kentucky to California.

ONE BROTHER, Alex, had married a Kentucky girl, Fannie Brown, and had brought her to California. Their first child, Emma Jane, born on the home ranch in 1855, was said to have been the first white child to be born in Tomales Township.

The Marshalls were enterprising, industrious and thrifty men who did not confine their interests entirely to the ranch they operated so successfully.

Thus when the North Pacific Coast Railroad construction reached the bayside at Tomales, they were among those who shared in the prosperity that resulted in the growth of the small community that had sprung up there.

ORIGINALLY, the railroad station was referred to as "Marshalls." But gradually the name of the village which became a sportsmen's and vacationers' mecca became simply "Marshall."

On Oct. 26, 1899, the Marin Journal was still referring to it by its earlier name when it reported:

"A new large and roomy hotel has just been completed at Marshalls. The building is an excellent piece of architectural work and commands a grand sight of Tomales Bay. It was constructed for the Marshall Bros. and compendiously speaking its cost was $3,000.

"Two years ago the Bay View Hotel was burned and since then the town has been without any accommodations for the many hunters and fishermen who frequently visit here for the fine hunting and fishing this place affords. Salmon Creek is one of the finest streams in the county for fresh water fishing, being a short distance from here.

"THERE IS no doubt that with proper management it will become a favorite summer resort because in the hottest days in summer this place is cool and refreshing.

"Mrs. John Shields, an enterprising woman of this vicinity, has secured a lease and expects to have the building furnished and ready for opening by the first of November."

Like Marshall, the family name of Shields was an important one in the area.

For many years a large dairy ranch at Marshall was under Shields ownership. And the Shields' general merchandise store at Marshall was a favorite gathering place for the ranchers and the sportsmen.

CLUSTERED along the shoreline of the Tomales Bay were the cabins of a different kind of fisherman. These were the Indians or halfbreeds who, because of the influx of the white man, had been driven from their own fertile lands and forced to subsist on a sparse diet of fish.

Men and women of the small colony of Indians turned over the big rocks along the shore to dig up the small clams which were the great delicacy of the area. The clams were then sold by the diggers for 50 cents to $1 a gunny-sack full.

Fish and games laws that outlawed the taking of the clams for commercial purposes were hailed as a great victory for the sportsmen. But they left the hapless Indian clam-diggers without any means of support.

STILL A FEW remained at Marshall. The men worked with the fishermen. A few rented boats to visiting sportsmen.

Women from the Indian colony worked for small wages in the ranchhouses of the area.

Before the ban, the clam-digging and sales had made Marshall an especially interesting and colorful railroad stop. Small, dark faces peered through tiny cabin windows at the train and its passengers. And sacks of clams were to be seen along with other cargo such as the large milk cans and the mail sacks on the railroad platform.

There were to be times, too, when fish were loaded by the ton onto the trains, while hungry passengers flooded the dining room of the North Coast Hotel to enjoy fresh from the water those same delicacies.

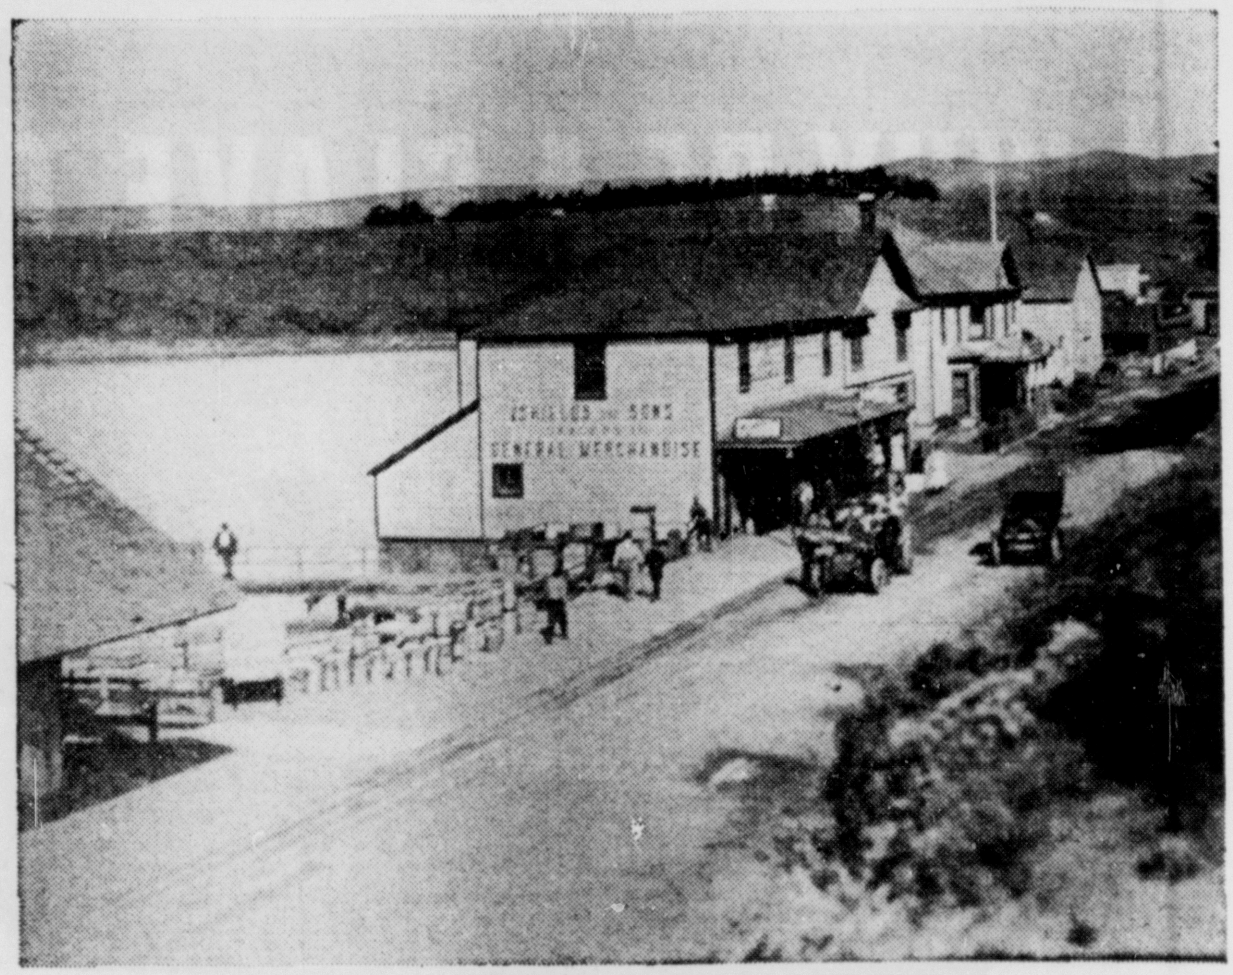
OLD-TIMERS recall when herring sold for 50 cents a sack, and when, in one period of two months, eight to nine tons of herring, mostly destined for use as bait, were loaded onto trains.

Recalled one ex-fisherman: "Those cars smelled something awful."

He remembered, too, how hurried the loading was because, "if we were there and ready, they'd stop. Otherwise not."

Tomales Bay, itself, was then and is now treacherous at times.

ITS WATERS look calm and peaceful. But a small squall can come up at a moment's notice, swamping small boats and throwing the occupants into the bay. The people of Marshall have experienced many tragic drownings.



THE NAME of Shields has been an important one in the history of the Marshall area. The general merchandise store of the John Shieldses, shown here, was a popular gathering place for residents and visitors to the small community.

There was other turbulence not connected with the sea in the little community. Deaths in saloon brawls were not infrequent.

One of those recorded took place Feb. 13, 1867, when T. J. McKeon, a storekeeper on Tomales Bay, was slain by drunken customers.

ON A HIGHER plane, the quaint church on the hill overlooking Marshall, named St. Helen's, was built in 1902 by Rev. John Rogers, pastor of the Church of the Assumption in Tomales. Father Rogers established the mission church at Marshall on land given by Mrs. Jane Marshall. Cost of the building was $2,000.

From its beginnings, Marshall had a strong attraction for sightseers with its rustic tranquility and for sportsmen with its fish and game. Nature lovers continue to find it a paradise.

The small beaches on the bayshore yield shells and rocks brought in by the tide. And in the spring the hills are covered with wildflowers, the Indian Paintbrush standing most proudly among them.

WHILE MUCH of the atmosphere is virtually unchanged, good roads and automobiles have opened up much of the land lying beyond the rolling hills.

First-time visitors to Marshall, coming via Point Reyes Station, are invariably intrigued by the large Mediterranean-type buildings they can see on the hillside.

These are now the property of the Synanon Foundation of San Francisco and Santa Monica, dedicated to working with narcotics victims. The foundation bought the property in 1964 from Dr. Carlos Fernandes, a Richmond physician who once served as the Portuguese consul-general in Oakland.

REPORTS AT the time quoted the price for 42 acres, the 30-room hotel and several cottages at $175,000.

Dr. Fernandes retained about 20 acres and a duplex at the north end of the development.

Generally, the entire project is known locally as "Marconi." And behind that name are an interesting several pages of Marin and American history.

The announcement to the people of Marin County that the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co. of America had selected their area as the site for major installations was made with a disarming absence of fanfare by the Marin Journal on Oct. 10, 1912.

THE HEADLINES stated simply: "The Bolinas Wireless."

The story below said. ". . . Throughout the whole world it will be known for its usefulness and will be exclusively for trans-Pacific dispatches. We have creditable authority for the announcement that the poles of this important station, to be erected about a mile above Duxbury Reef, are now awaiting at the Union Iron Works in San Francisco and operations will commence as soon as the deeds to the Ingermann ranch are placed on record . . .

"Another wireless station will be erected in the vicinity of Tomales Bay for the use of the coast towns north of San Francisco. That at the Cliff House is for use of ocean vessels only."

THE ARTICLE writer seemed to have no real concept of the details or vastness of the plans of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co., which had its headquarters in faraway New York City.

The company was to build five similar units, each consisting of a transmitting station, a receiving station and a central city office, that were to be connected by conventional telegraph and telephone circuits.

Two of the units were to go up on the Atlantic Coast to work with European stations. There was to be one unit in California to work with Europe. And a fourth unit, the one in Marin, was to communicate with Hawaii, where a new dual unit would maintain contact with California to the east and the Orient to the west.

This Marin-based unit was to consist of a transmitter at Bolinas, a receiving station at Marshall and a central office in San Francisco.

OUTGOING messages would be collected at the central office, then transmitted over conventional land lines to the transmitting station for delivery.

This procedure would be reversed with incoming messages going by landline from the receiving station to the central office.

The J. G. White Engineering Co. of New York City was selected to construct the new Marconi units, and began its work in 1913. At Marshall, Marconi bought 1,125.7 acres from Silvio Maggetti and his wife, Clorinda, in February of 1913, and building began at once.

TODAY, telegraph transmission overseas has changed drastically. Messages are handled directly from the San Francisco central office by mechanized, high-speed equipment.

But, while no longer needed, the Marconi buildings at Marshall remain standing practically as good in their condition as the day they were erected. Their steel-frame, concrete construction with red tile roofs and copper gutters have withstood the years and the elements well.

It has been noted that all the buildings have high-ceiling basements with thick, concrete walls, that would make them serviceable as bomb shelters in the event of war.

THE TWO-STORY hotel, which housed most Marconi personnel and visitors, with its wide veranda at front and sides, affords a magnificent view of the bay.

All rooms have hardwood floors and fixtures for steam heating.

The lounge and recreation hall, 25 by 35 feet, is dominated by a huge rock and metal fireplace.

The dining room is of similar design.

THE LARGE kitchens were equipped with walk-in refrigerators.

Two administrative residences at Marconi, which housed the superintendent and assistant superintendent and their families, are five rooms each. Nearby is the building in which the steam plant for generating electricity was installed, with a warehouse and machine shops.

Higher up the hill was the receiving station. The original receiving antenna was approximately a mile long and was supported by seven steel towers 270 feet in height.

WATER WAS no problem. Springs on the hill provided a never-ending flow of crystal clear water sent down through pipes by gravity.

I did earlier research on Marconi while it was owned by Dr. Fernandes and was his guest there. I then contacted a number of people who had been connected with the plant.

George Baxter was one of the earliest superintendents of the Marshall station, and was succeeded by Frank Roy, who later became Pacific Division manager for Radio Corporation of America Communications Inc.

OLD-TIMERS told me the fine old hotel was never occupied to capacity, since the staff never exceeded 25 at one time.

They told, too, of how, at the outbreak of World War I, the Navy Department took over the station and shut down the California-Hawaii circuit.

Eventually, however, the station was returned to Marconi ownership. In 1919 Radio Corporation of America was formed and took over the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co. of America, including the original acreage at Marshall. For a time the station was operated under the name RCA.

IN 1922, RCA deeded a major portion of the property to David Steele, but retained the 62.6 acres upon which the buildings stood and where the springs ran. But in 1929 the operations at Marshall ceased. It was found that reception at Point Reyes was better, so a new station was built on property acquired on the McClure Ranch.

RCA kept title to the Marshall property until 1947 when it was sold to J. E. Davis. Richard Dineley was the 1955 owner who sold it to Dr. Fernandes.

James Marshall, a member of the family from which the community got its name and a former Marin County supervisor, remembers the excitement in Marshall at the time the wireless station was established.

"THEY PAID a premium for land and men," he recalls. "They paid $5 a day for riggers, really something for those times."

John C. (Jack) Ogleby, civil engineer, remembered the early days at Marconi, and how, in order to bring the heavy equipment and machinery to the station, the county's wooden bridges first had to be reinforced.

The greatest battle at the station, he said, was against obsolescence. Improved wireless methods and equipment continually outdated existing machinery and procedures.

THERE WAS heavy expense, too, in acquiring right-of-way from ranch owners. Lines were run from Marshall to Chileno Valley to pick up the beam from China. For the Tokyo beam, a line was run between Marshall and Tocaloma.

Dr. Fernandes said he bought the Marconi station because it reminded him of his birthplace on Madeira Island.

He studied for his medical degree in Lisbon and did graduate work in surgery at the Sorbonne in Paris, coming to the United States in 1924.

MARCONI WAS in festive attire in April of 1956 for the wedding reception after Dr. Fernandes' only daughter, Louise, had been married at the Church of the Assumption in Tomales to Fernando Silva.

The 3 p.m. ceremony was delayed slightly because the wedding party had arrived at the church without the bride's bouquet. There was no florist shop nearby, so a scurrying-about for garden flowers was necessary before the ceremony could go on.

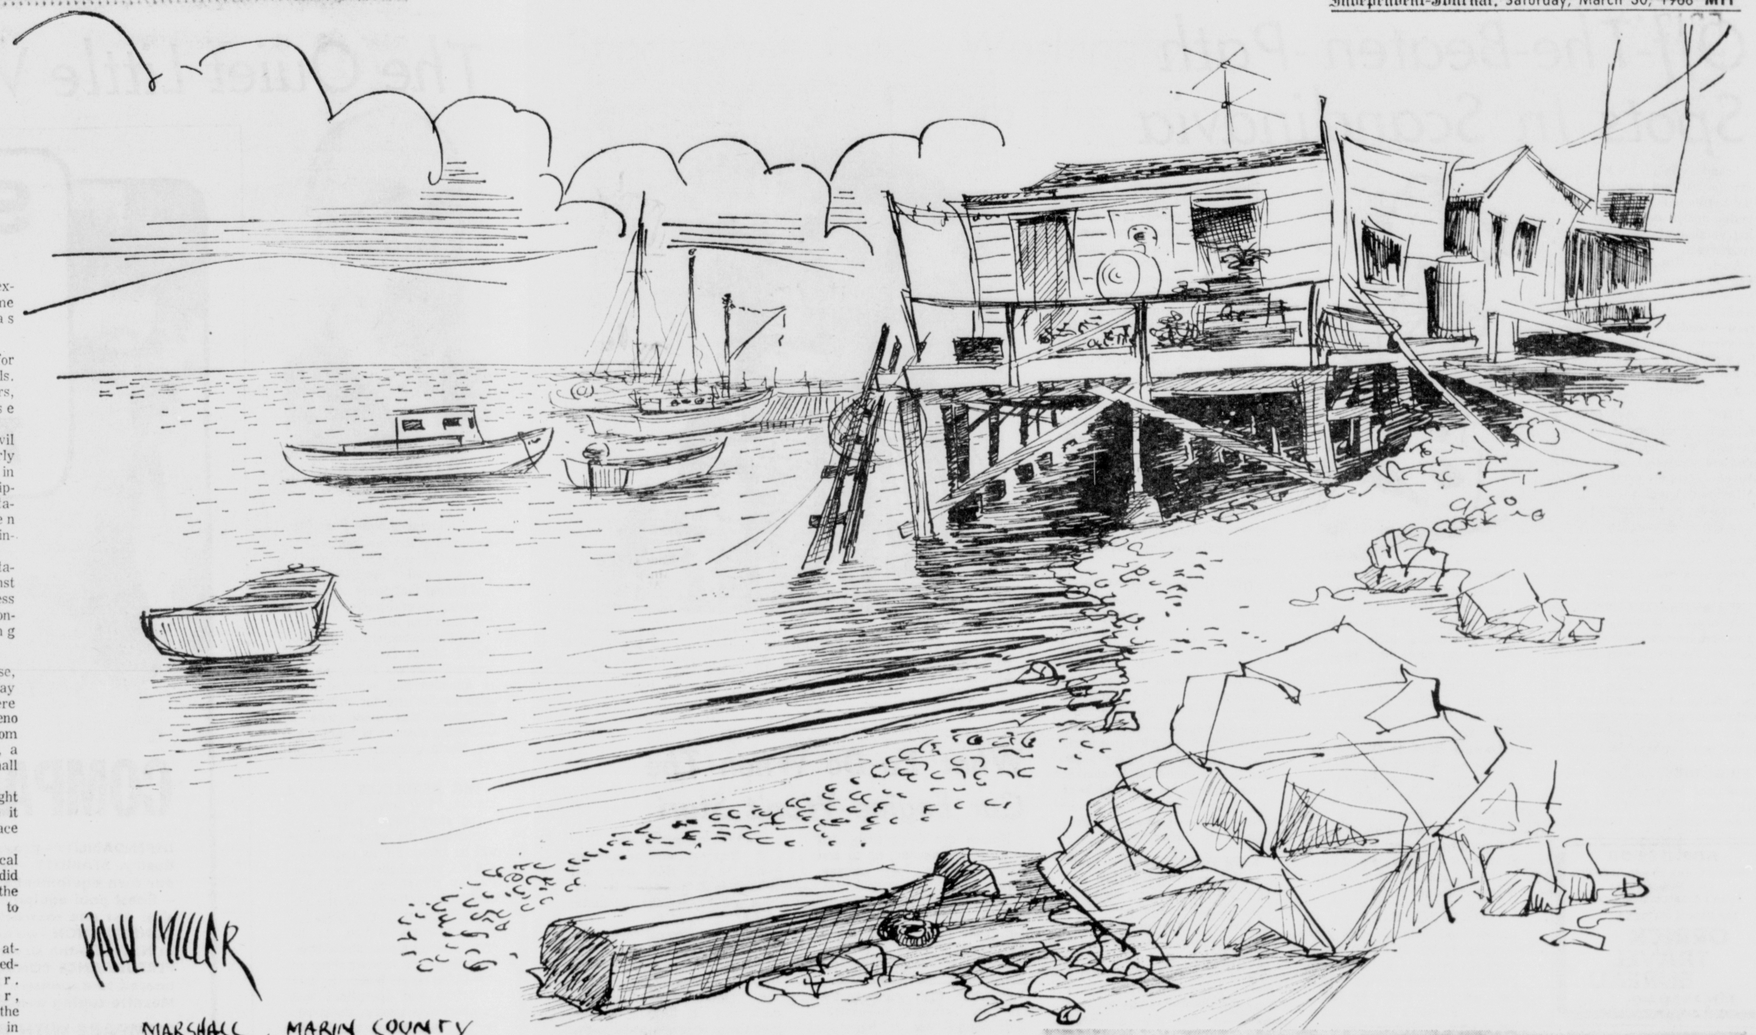
Afterward, the wedding party of 50 in a dozen cars, with horns blaring, sped along the road to Marshall as roadside residents waved their best wishes.

OTHER GUESTS were waiting on the wide veranda of the old hotel. Inside, the newlyweds stood at the head of the receiving line amid huge arrangements of spring flowers.

The huge stone fireplace, garlanded with lilies, formed the backdrop. In the large dining room the long table was loaded with hors d'oeuvres. Outside, the barbecue grills were covered with filet mignon steaks. The feast was concluded with the drinking of champagne toasts.

As the guests were seated for the banquet, Dr. Manuel Barbosa, best man, read a message of blessing from Pope Pius.

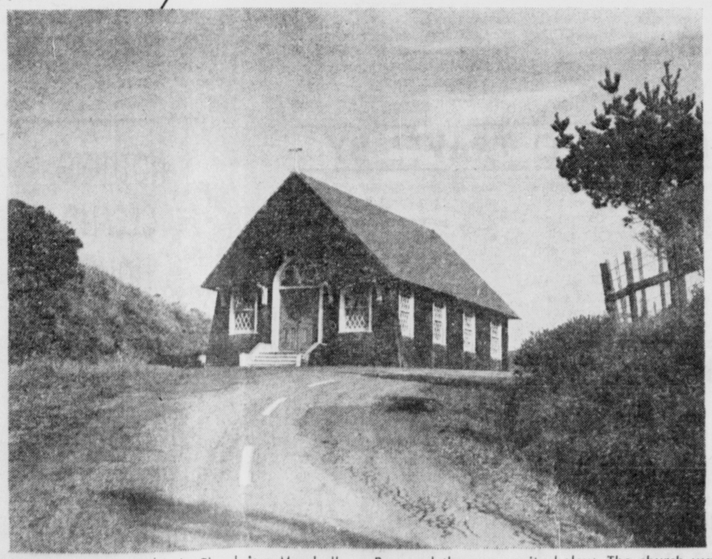
The newlyweds stayed in a honeymoon cottage at Marconi.



THIS SKETCH by Independent-Journal cartoonist and artist Paul Miller, based on a 1958 Independent-Journal photo, shows the village of Marshall on Tomales Bay as it has appeared in its more recent history, its waterfront tranquility and picturesqueness surprisingly unchanged through the passing of the decades.

IT REPRESENTED a romantic chapter in the history of a place built for a most practical purpose that it served well. It is appropriate that today those buildings are enjoying yet another chapter of usefulness — this time a humanitarian one.

And that the little town of Marshall, while no longer a commercial clamming center, a railroad terminal nor a communications cog of worldwide import, still clings today to what has always been one of its most irresistible attractions— the natural beauty of its bay and encircling hills, and the serenity of its comparative isolation that makes it so attractive to urbanites and suburbanites in quest of peace and quiet.



ST. HELEN'S Roman-Catholic Church is a Marshall landmark, sitting on a knoll overlooking Tomales Bay and the community below. The church was built in 1902 at the instigation of Fr. John Rogers.

ANOTHER Marshall landmark is the development known as Marconi, now owned by the Synanon Foundation, with its large hotel building with veranda. It was once a major overseas communications unit.

THE TWO-STORY hotel, which housed most Marconi personnel and visitors, with its wide veranda at front and sides, affords a magnificent view of the bay.

All rooms have hardwood floors and fixtures for steam heating.

The lounge and recreation hall, 25 by 35 feet, is dominated by a huge rock and metal fireplace.

The dining room is of similar design.

THE LARGE kitchens were equipped with walk-in refrigerators.

Two administrative residences at Marconi, which housed the superintendent and assistant superintendent and their families, are five rooms each. Nearby is the building in which the steam plant for generating electricity was installed, with a warehouse and machine shops.

Higher up the hill was the receiving station. The original receiving antenna was approximately a mile long and was supported by seven steel towers 270 feet in height.

WATER WAS no problem. Springs on the hill provided a never-ending flow of crystal clear water sent down through pipes by gravity.

I did earlier research on Marconi while it was owned by Dr. Fernandes and was his guest there. I then contacted a number of people who had been connected with the plant.

George Baxter was one of the earliest superintendents of the Marshall station, and was succeeded by Frank Roy, who later became Pacific Division manager for Radio Corporation of America Communications Inc.

OLD-TIMERS told me the fine old hotel was never occupied to capacity, since the staff never exceeded 25 at one time.

They told, too, of how, at the outbreak of World War I, the Navy Department took over the station and shut down the California-Hawaii circuit.

Eventually, however, the station was returned to Marconi ownership. In 1919 Radio Corporation of America was formed and took over the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Co. of America, including the original acreage at Marshall. For a time the station was operated under the name RCA.

IN 1922, RCA deeded a major portion of the property to David Steele, but retained the 62.6 acres upon which the buildings stood and where the springs ran. But in 1929 the operations at Marshall ceased. It was found that reception at Point Reyes was better, so a new station was built on property acquired on the McClure Ranch.

RCA kept title to the Marshall property until 1947 when it was sold to J. E. Davis. Richard Dineley was the 1955 owner who sold it to Dr. Fernandes.

James Marshall, a member of the family from which the community got its name and a former Marin County supervisor, remembers the excitement in Marshall at the time the wireless station was established.

"THEY PAID a premium for land and men," he recalls. "They paid $5 a day for riggers, really something for those times."

John C. (Jack) Ogleby, civil engineer, remembered the early days at Marconi, and how, in order to bring the heavy equipment and machinery to the station, the county's wooden bridges first had to be reinforced.

The greatest battle at the station, he said, was against obsolescence. Improved wireless methods and equipment continually outdated existing machinery and procedures.

THERE WAS heavy expense, too, in acquiring right-of-way from ranch owners. Lines were run from Marshall to Chileno Valley to pick up the beam from China. For the Tokyo beam, a line was run between Marshall and Tocaloma.

Dr. Fernandes said he bought the Marconi station because it reminded him of his birthplace on Madeira Island.

He studied for his medical degree in Lisbon and did graduate work in surgery at the Sorbonne in Paris, coming to the United States in 1924.

MARCONI WAS in festive attire in April of 1956 for the wedding reception after Dr. Fernandes' only daughter, Louise, had been married at the Church of the Assumption in Tomales to Fernando Silva.

The 3 p.m. ceremony was delayed slightly because the wedding party had arrived at the church without the bride's bouquet. There was no florist shop nearby, so a scurrying-about for garden flowers was necessary before the ceremony could go on.

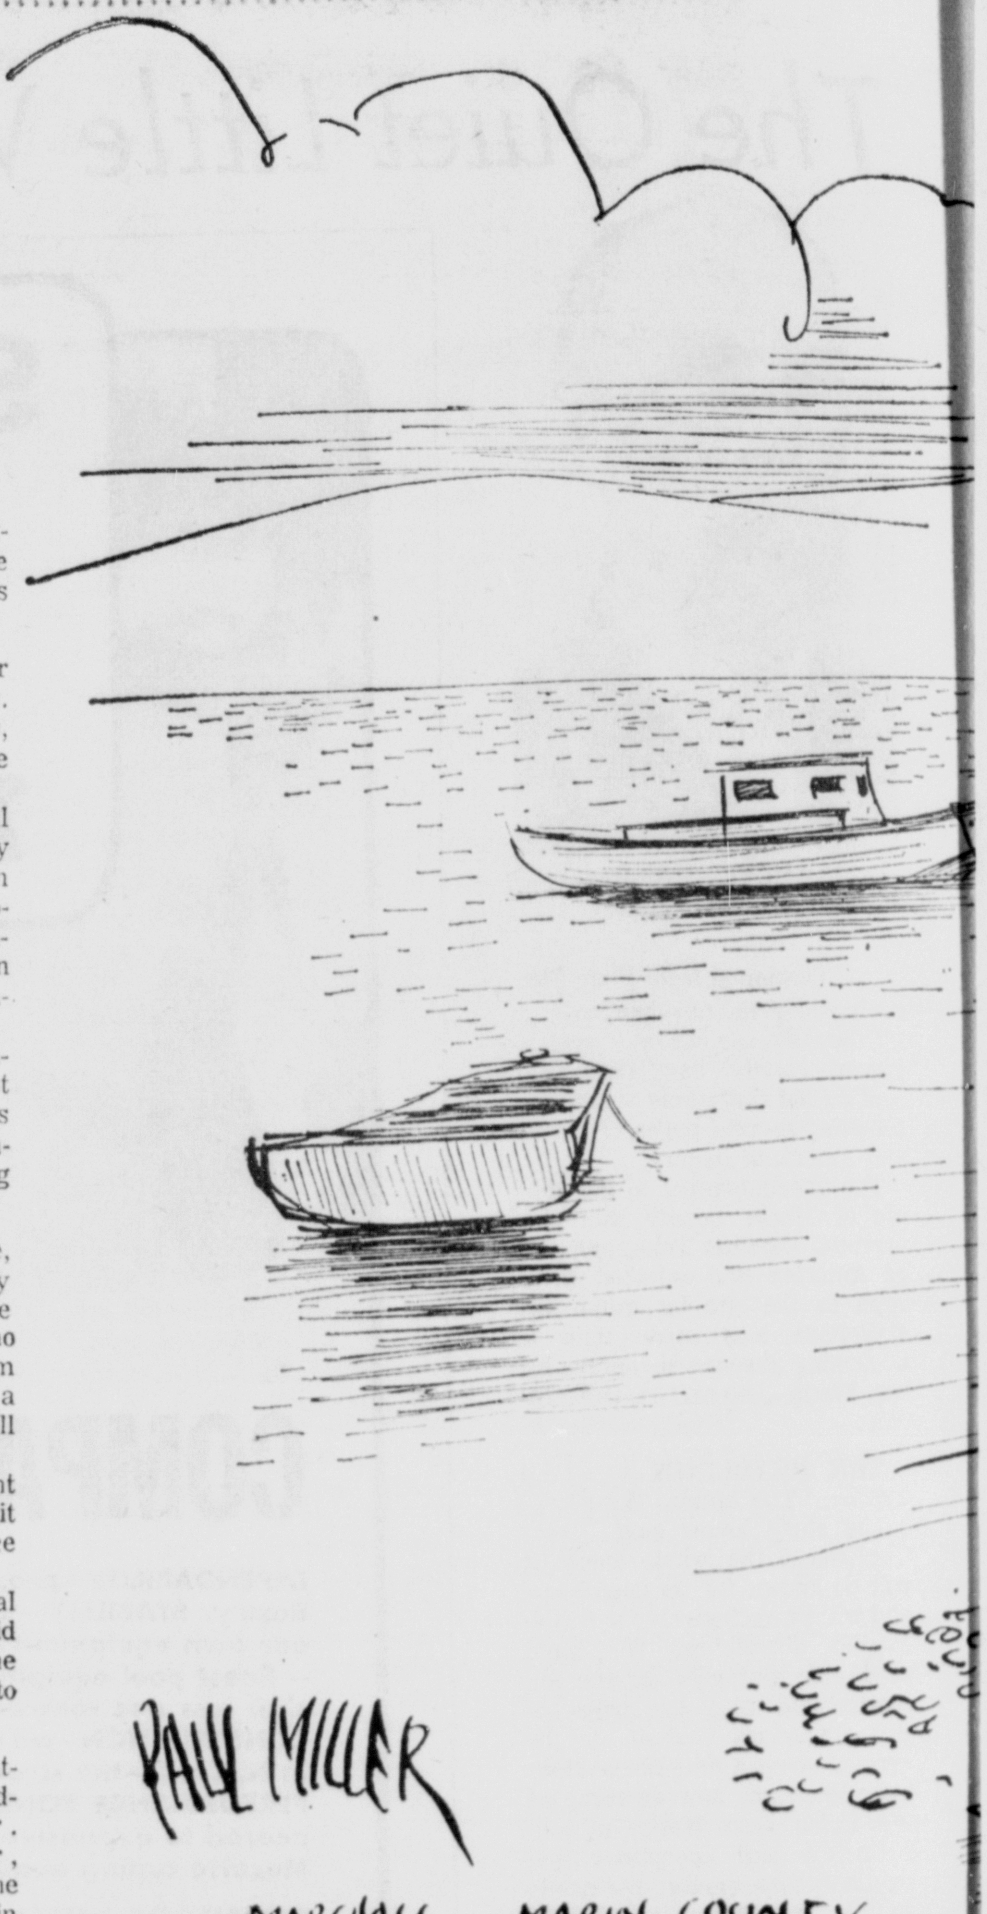
Afterward, the wedding party of 50 in a dozen cars, with horns blaring, sped along the road to Marshall as roadside residents waved their best wishes.

OTHER GUESTS were waiting on the wide veranda of the old hotel. Inside, the newlyweds stood at the head of the receiving line amid huge arrangements of spring flowers.

The huge stone fireplace, garlanded with lilies, formed the backdrop. In the large dining room the long table was loaded with hors d'oeuvres. Outside, the barbecue grills were covered with filet mignon steaks. The feast was concluded with the drinking of champagne toasts.

As the guests were seated for the banquet, Dr. Manuel Barbosa, best man, read a message of blessing from Pope Pius.

The newlyweds stayed in a honeymoon cottage at Marconi.



PAUL MILLER

MARSHALL, MARIN COUNTY

THIS SKETCH by Independent-Journal cartoonist and artist Paul Miller, based on a 1958 Independent-Journal photo, shows the village of Marshall on Tomales Bay as it has appeared in its more recent history, its waterfront tranquility and picturesqueness surprisingly unchanged through the passing of the decades.

IT REPRESENTED a romantic chapter in the history of a place built for a most practical purpose that it served well. It is appropriate that today those buildings are enjoying yet another chapter of usefulness — this time a humanitarian one.

And that the little town of Marshall, while no longer a commercial clamming center, a railroad terminal nor a communications cog of worldwide import, still clings today to what has always been one of its most irresistible attractions— the natural beauty of its bay and encircling hills, and the serenity of its comparative isolation that makes it so attractive to urbanites and suburbanites in quest of peace and quiet.

THE POWER OF PRAYER

Petticoat Junction's Kate Bradley Has Won Her Fight With Cancer

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Yes, it's lovely on the desert today," said Bea Benadaret, speaking on the telephone from Palm Springs. "But then every day is beautiful to me."

Miss Benadaret, star of television's long-running "Petticoat Junction" spoke with understandable feeling. She said doctors have told her that a tumor on her lung has been dissolved by radiation treatment.

THE ACTRESS did not make any predictions for the future. "But I do know that I feel fine, better than I have felt in years," she said. "They tell me the spot on my lung has disappeared, and I believe them."

Long one of the busiest performers of radio and television, Miss Benadaret had lived with the threat of cancer for five years.

During a routine checkup, a spot was discovered on her lung, then it disappeared. Her doctors remained vigilant, and she was X-rayed at least every three months. Meanwhile she cut down her usual quota of three-to-four packs of cigarettes a day.

"THREE WEEKS before last Thanksgiving, I had another X-ray, and the spot had reappeared," she said. "The doctors told me to come back in two weeks for another look. The spot had grown."

Meanwhile she was in the midst of shooting the fifth season of "Petticoat Junction."

BEA BENADARET
She returns tonight

She told none of the company of her ailment and resisted urgings by her doctor for immediate surgery; she was concerned that her absence would imperil the show. Finally her family prevailed upon her to undergo the operation. It took place Nov. 26.

AFTERWARDS, she related, the lung surgeon told her, "I found the tumor, but I have to tell you I could do nothing about it."

"Why?" she asked.

"Because if I did, you would be an invalid for the rest of your life."

Treatment was recommended at Stanford University Hospital, where she was subjected to a linear accelerator, a super-voltage method of radiation.

"THEY WARNED me that there could be side effects as a result of the treatment," she said, "but that I might avoid them. Somehow I did. Oh, I was debilitated, of course, but I was never prone. I was able to walk during the entire six and a half weeks of treatments, five days a week.

"I went up there convinced that the treatments would work. Maybe I was stupid, or maybe I had simply developed a faith in the fantastic outpouring of prayer and expressions of hope that I received from so many people. The mail was stacked so high you wouldn't believe it.

"I think the outcome means either that God has chosen me to live or that there is great power in prayer."

DOCTORS recommended a desert recuperation, and she has been staying at Palm Springs with her husband, Eugene Twombley. She has been swimming, sunning, knitting, reading and — watching TV.

But she will be back at "Petticoat Junction" in her role as Kate Bradley tonight, her first episode since cancer forced the layoff.

TV's vast wasteland starts shrinking this Monday.

April 1. The Virgin Spring. Adult movies. A powerful reason to tune in America's most powerful TV station on Monday. At 9 p.m. on April 1, Channel 20 presents Ingmar Bergman's "The Virgin Spring." And every Monday, you'll see equally distinguished films that are strictly not for minors. Films like "Repulsion" by Roman Polanski. Brigitte Bardot in "And God Created Woman." Rene Clement's "Purple Noon." Movies you never expected to see on television.

April 1. Stan Wilson. From America's best night clubs, folk singer Stan Wilson comes to Channel 20 with a special kind of children's show. Monday through Friday at 3:30 p.m., he'll present his program for kids who don't want to stay kids. He'll get your children singing and playing along with him. And enjoying every minute of it all. They'll enjoy all Stan's cartoon friends, too. People like Prince Planet; Johnny Cypher in Dimension Zero; Fantastic 8th Man; Ultra Man; and Speed Racer.

April 6. Kup's Show. Ten Emmys later, "Mr. Chicago" finally makes it to San Francisco. Irv Kupcinet's conversation show has been a "must see" in Chicago for more than ten years. He won the 1967 Peabody Award as well as his flock of Emmys, so he's getting better all the time. Tune in Kup every Saturday night at 9 p.m.

April 7. Mel Belli. The celebrated "King of Torts" has found a permanent place to state his strong views on almost anything. "With Mel Belli" comes to Channel 20 on Sunday, April 7, at 9 p.m. And he'll be back every week at the same time, with interviews and commentary that will probably make you want to fight back.

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

THE JAMES COTTON BLUES BAND — Verve Forecast FTS-3023:

This important figure in Negro blues for many years has been heard until recently with Muddy Waters. Now he has formed his own wild and rocking band which has shaken the old rafters at San Francisco's Fillmore many times in past months.

In addition to his terrific vocals — unmatched by any white disciples — he plays a mean mouthharp. My favorites were "Knock On Wood" and the rockin' instrumental "Off the Wall."

Anyone who is a fan of the Butterfield Blues Band will want to have this album too.

"RAVI SHANKAR Live at the Monterey International Pop Festival" — World Pacific WPS-21442:

A contrast to the rest of the program at the Monterey Pop Festival last spring was the Sunday afternoon session with Ravi Shankar, India's greatest exponent of the sitar. He had a packed arena and held the crowds of young people spellbound with his soaring improvisations in ancient Hindu classical music.

This is that wonderful afternoon, with the Oriental-carpeted stage strewn with flowers, joss sticks sending out their fragrance throughout the crowds, and a cloudy sky imparting a meditative mood to the proceedings preserved forever on disc.

The interaction with the attentive audience spurred Shankar to new heights in the long raga which takes up the first side of this disc. There is also an amazing solo by his tabla player, Alla Rakha, and the usual demonstration of the various beats and time signatures.

The sound is terrific, the notes are by Shankar himself, and a fine rock-type poster of Shankar decorates the cover.

Off-The-Beaten-Path Spots In Scandinavia

Scandinavia's supply of fascinating and uncrowded off-the-beaten-path places continue undiminished despite the growing number of visitors to those countries.

Each year the directors of the four Scandinavian national travel offices in the U.S. offer a fresh list of their personally recommended spots. This year's selections: Ribe, in Denmark; Savonlinna, Finland; Godoysund, Norway, and Karlstad, Sweden.

RIBE, ON the west coast of Jutland, is suggested by Axel Dessau of Denmark as a pleasant respite from the traveler's usually hectic pace. It is Denmark's oldest town, dating from 840, and storks still fly here like clockwork from Africa every April to nest on its rooftops.

Ribe Cathedral, erected about 1130, is one of the oldest and most impressive churches in Scandinavia. Quaint, half-timbered houses from the 16th Century, line the town's narrow, winding streets, and a watchman chanting rhymes from the Middle Ages continues to make nightly rounds in summer.

The hotels are modest, but quaint and comfortable.

FROM RIBE, one can make excursions to the nearby North Sea islands of Romo and Fano. Romo, reached by an impressive embankment, has Denmark's widest bathing beach and the new Lakolk Hotel; Fano has not only beaches, but also idyllic fishing villages such as Sonderho, with interesting 300-year-old skippers' cottages.

Savonlinna, in Finland's vast Eastern Lake District, is Herman Ramo's nomination for this year.

Located there is Olavinlinna Castle, built in 1475 as a frontier fortification and considered the best-preserved and most beautiful medieval castle in northern Europe. Folk dances are performed every Sunday in summer at this famous landmark, and an opera festival is staged in June and July.

SAVONLINNA IS a town of islands and sounds with picturesque views. It is the commercial center of one of Finland's ancient provinces and the main traffic center for Lake Saimaa, Europe's largest lake system. From there, white three-decker steamers ply different routes between lakeside towns. In seven and a half hours, for example, you can see Punkaharju Ridge, a narrow, four-mile-long ribbon of verdant beauty that separates two lakes and is ideal for camping.

Godoysund, an island at the entrance to Norway's Hardanger fiord and just two hours south of Bergen, west coast gateway, is Per Prag's choice.

Surrounded by a cluster of islands that shelters its waters, Godoysund is ideal for boating, bathing and angling. Its wide variety of fish includes cod, mackerel, skate, tuna and occasionally sea trout and halibut. A pool stocks rainbow trout, and you can fish from a rowboat close to the hotel or from motorboats farther out in the fjord.

THE GODOYSUND Fjord Hotel is a quiet, comfortable little place and is reached in 50 minutes by the hotel's own motor launch from the village of Os, south of Bergen. The main building is brand new and has spacious rooms and magnificent views. Most of the bedrooms have private balconies.

The hotel supplies rowboats free of charge, and larger boats and fishing tackle can be rented.

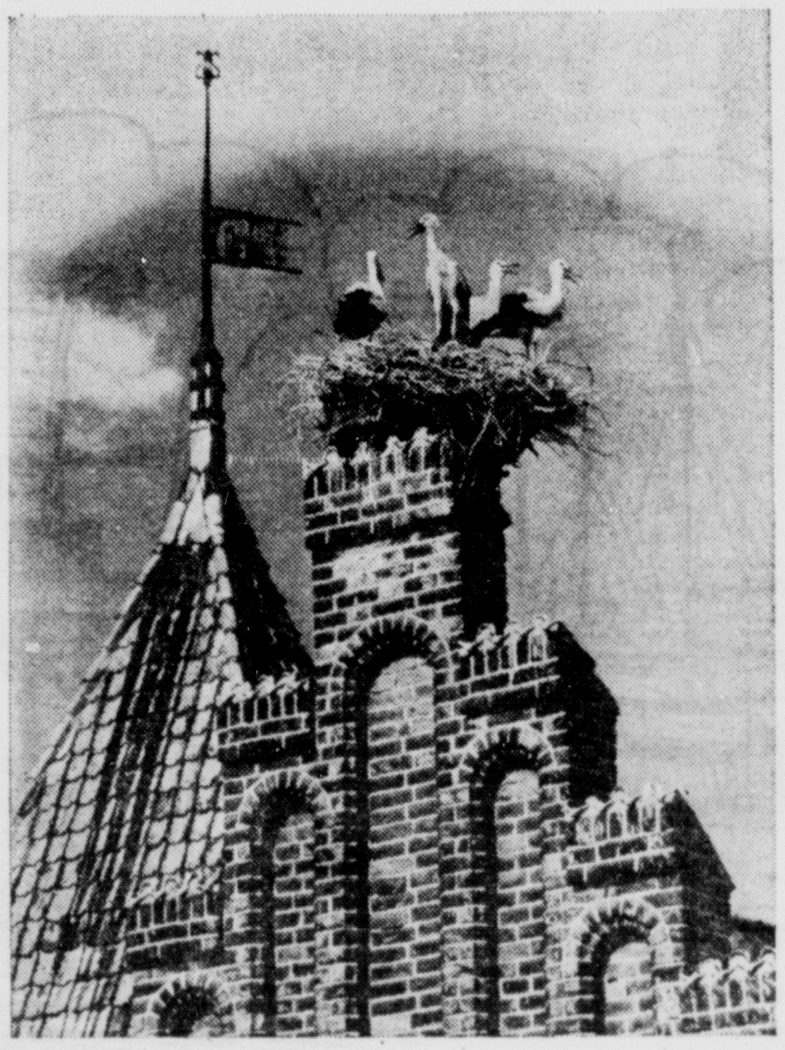
Excursions by bus and boat are made to various scenic places in the Hardanger Fjord, "queen" of Norway's fjords.

KARLSTAD, Sweden's commercial center for timber and pulp on the northern shore of Lake Vanern, Europe's third largest lake, is recommended by Ake Gille as the excellent base for exploring the province of Varmland, and particularly places associated with Selma Lagerlof, Nobel Prize-winning author of "The Wonderful Adventure of Nils" and "The Story of Gosta Berling."

The manor houses of the latter novel are scattered around the Fryken Lakes north of Karlstad and include Rottneros, the real-life "Ekeby," an 80-acre estate with over 100 statues.

Marbacka, Miss Lagerlof's home until her death in 1940, is nearby and can also be visited.

In Kristinehamn, 28 miles east of Karlstad, is a 50-foot-high sculpture by Pablo Picasso. Its setting seems natural, for no province has been romanticized so much in Swedish literature as Varmland, with its blue lakes, vast forests, birch groves, rivers, undulating farmland, white mansions and red farmhouses.



LIKE THE tourists, these storks, more regular visitors, seem to be enjoying the 1,000-year-old atmosphere of the old fairytale town of Ribe in Jutland, Denmark, 175 miles west of Copenhagen.

What To Do When The Car Engine Won't Start

Women are doing more and more of the driving, up to and even including solo vacation trips.

What happens if one day the trusted "tin lizzie" breaks down far from help and a man's assistance?

To prepare women for the unexpected, the National Automobile Club suggests the fair sex acquaint themselves with simple "do it yourself" repair procedures.

For example, if the engine turns over but won't start, NAC recommends women to follow these easy home remedies to correct minor difficulties:

1. Check the gas gauge.
2. Depress the accelerator pedal to the floor once and release it if the engine is cold. This will release the automatic choke.
3. To start a warm engine, the accelerator pedal should be depressed halfway to the floor.
4. Repeated attempts to start the engine may flood the carburetor. If flooding occurs, hold the accelerator pedal to the floor while starting the car.

If the engine still won't start it may be an indication of mechanical malfunction, and NAC advises professional help be called.

Snoqualmie Falls – Washington's Land Of Honey From The Sky

The Travel Pages

The mist of rushing falls which are 100 feet higher than famed Niagara, provide a dreamy backdrop for a milk and honey land.

Just 40 minutes east of Seattle — Washington's "queen city" — Snoqualmie Falls and the pastoral valley into which its snow-fed waters flow are a perfect stopping point for visitors touring the Evergreen State.

THIS BEAUTIFUL area nestled at the foot of the green, jagged Cascade Mountains was once the home of a peace loving Indian tribe called the Snoqualmies.

Pioneer Samuel Hancock discovered the uncharted waterfalls in 1849. The friendly Indians there told him it had long been a neutral zone between the plains Indians of Eastern Washington and the peninsula tribes of Western Washington. These warring tribes met on the "neutral" homeland of the Snoqualmies to settle their frequent disputes.

The Indians, Hancock learned, felt the steady rush of the falls, the fresh mountain air and the natural beauty of the surroundings led to peaceful agreements among the warriors. The falls themselves were said to have supernatural powers of peace. The Indians named them, "Sdoh-Kuahl-bu."

ROADS TO the falls wind through a green, lush farming area. Quaintly befitting the setting, a sign atop one little country grocery store along the road labels it "Paradise."

Carnation, the hometown and experimental laboratory of the world-wide Carnation Farms, is in the valley. The icy waters from the falls provide energy to operate Weyerhaeuser Saw Mills.

Both plants are open for sightseeing by the tourist.

Rural the area may be, but it is not ignored. Washingtonians have for years been coming to see the 268-foot falls. There on the cliff beside the falls, they can dine in a homely old lodge which was built in 1916 by a family named Graves.

ORVILLE AND Boyd Graves, a father-and-son team, operate the restaurant now. Your waitress tells you the homemade pickles, beets, sauerkraut, applesauce and unending supply of fresh hot biscuits were made by the lodge's "pantry maids."

Snoqualmie Falls Lodge is famous for its chicken dinners and its farm breakfasts, which include seven surprise courses. But, most of all, guests delight at the honey which waitresses deftly serve from spoons held three feet above the waiting bread-and-butter plates. It's called "honey from the sky" and the Graves claim guests consume nearly 100 pounds in one breakfast.

Incidentally, ask your shy young waitress if she has ever missed the plate, and she'll say, "never—but one of the other girls did drop a spoonful on a man's head once."

THE LUSH GREENERY and the quiet peacefulness of Washington state makes it a prime vacation area for Californians who long for a change of climate and scenery without traveling too far.

The Man Who Could See Beyond The Present To Past Existences

By DON KEOWN

EDGAR CAYCE ON REINCARNATION by Noel Langley; Hawthorne, 286 pages, $4.95.

STRAYHORN by William Herrick; McGraw-Hill, 176 pages, $4.95.

Reincarnation is one of mankind's mostly heatedly and by its very nature most inconclusively debated beliefs.

Among its most convinced and dedicated advocates are the followers of the late mystic and telepathist Edgar Cayce.

Cayce's "readings" were often rooted in the prior existences of his subjects. In those earlier lives he professed to find the explanations for the conditions that brought those subjects to him, and from that knowledge he evolved his counsel on how problems could be overcome or endured.

Cayce followers insist the record substantiates the accuracy of the seer's "diagnoses," and therefore provides a solid block in the foundation upon which the theory of reincarnation stands.

"Edgar Cayce on Reincarnation" by professional writer Noel Langley with the editorial assistance of the clairvoyant's son, Hugh Lynn Cayce, is the written assertion of that declaration of belief.

Much of the first half of the book is devoted to accounts of readings by Cayce in which reincarnation figured. Cayce believers will see in them proof of reincarnation beyond dispute. Skeptics will find them unconvincing.

Two chapters are devoted to the contention that the Bible originally endorsed reincarnation, as enunciated particularly in the teachings of Origen of the prior existence of the soul. Subsequent tampering, it is claimed, deleted reincarnation from orthodox Christian theology.

The book also offers a study of the Salem witch trials with reincarnation as a key explanatory factor, a defense of Morey Bernstein's case for Bridey Murphy and a resume of the studies of Dr. Ian Stevenson.

In summary, Langley and Hugh Lynn Cayce hold that "reincarnation, then, is not a theory; it is a practical code of ethics directly affecting human morality . . . Nowhere does it seem to have been dangerous or harmful to man's spiritual or philosophic beliefs, save when it conflicts with an inflated ego. . .

"Yet no belief has been so stubbornly denied the benefit of doubt at the parochial level . . ."

They suggest to those who demand irrefutable proof for reincarnation that properly the burden should rest with the other side.

At first thought, the belief that our pain and misfortune today is in payment for past misconduct during an earlier existence we cannot even remember seems a grim and uncompromising one. But there is another side to the teachings of Cayce, who was a gentle and compassionate man. There is also the pledge that we can attain grace through rightful living in this existence. And the promise of reward in lives to come for loving, forebearing conduct today.

Edgar Cayce's teachings are being perpetuated by the Edgar Cayce Foundation and affiliated organizations headquartered in Virginia Beach, Va., (there is a Cayce study group in Marin), and have been further popularized by a number of books, one of which, Jess Stearns' "Edgar Cayce: The Sleeping Prophet," proved a best-seller of astonishing proportions last year.

The Langley-Cayce book is unlikely to enjoy the sales, readership or influence of the Stearns book. It is more restricted in its focus, not so well organized, less persuasive and generally less interesting. But it deals with a topic of tremendous importance to some, and for these it will be "must" reading. It is not so much the kind of book that converts or changes as it is the kind that reinforces existing beliefs and persuasions.

WLLLIAM HERRICK won considerable acclaim with his first novel, "The Itinerant," for the hard flinty, uncompromising quality of his writing.

Those qualities are still with him in "Strayhorn," but this reader, for one, has tired of looking into the human garbage pail for clues to the nature and the problems of contemporary man. And that is exactly where Herrick has us peering once again.

In David Strayhorn, latest in a long line of anti-heroes, we have the rotted piece of human refuse at its most degraded state.

A past that has loaded him with the maggots of guilt and disillusionment has made of him a rootless exploiter, a seeker of "kicks," a grabber of everything, a giver of nothing.

The perversities and despair within Strayhorn reach their climax when he becomes involved in a strange affair with a fat and now mute former operatic prima donna. He enters into it cynically, but becomes hooked obsessively.

Herrick would have us believe that in the end from this seemingly unhealthy relationship evolves something warm and meaningful. So many of these novels these days purport to do so. The young hellion, it seems, was in need, all along, of love, companionship, understanding, etc.

But Strayhorn has by then been established in our minds as such a repulsive, unsympathetic character that we cannot rejoice in his final good fortune.

Herrick demonstrates again an ability to write with a toughness that has s tiimpact. It is what he has chosen to write, not how he has written it, that produced in us a revulsion and an alienation from his story. The compassionate side of Strayhorn comes forth too late and is too little.

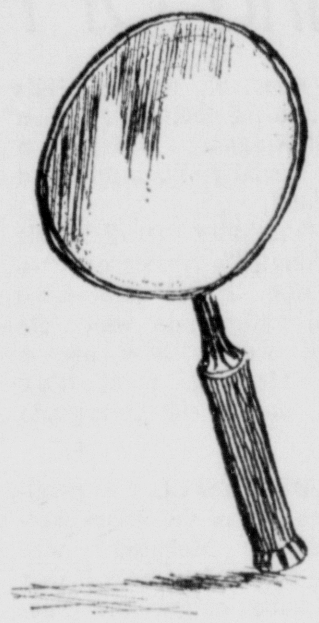
GRAVES OF GREEN WATER by Jan Roffman; Doubleday, 190 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Donald G. Davis.



Ashley Jones married for money. He had a stupid loving wife. He had a paralyzed grumpy father-in-law, whose business he ran. He despised both the job and the man, and longed for the man's death.

Finally Jones planned the death, but just then the body of Monica Price was discovered in her makeshift grave. Because of drought the water of the Dene Valley Reservoir receded, revealing her body.

Jones remembered burying her, sure that the then-planned reservoir would fill and cover his deed. But he couldn't remember killing her, because he had little blackouts now and then.

Then the father-in-law prepares his old service pistol for his own purposes, and there's gunfire, a house fire, and police everywhere with the big question: Who killed Monica Price and why?

There's a shocking conclusion in Jan Roffman's interesting Crime Club selection. It's set in England.

A Tragic Loss For Literature

THE SELECTED WORKS OF CESARE PAVESE translated by R. W. Flint; Farrar, Straus and Giroux, 390 pages, $8.95. Reviewed by Barbara L. Cullen.

American readers of serious literature will be delighted to discover a major Italian author, Cesare Pavese, through the posthumous translation of his writings by R. W. Flint.

The opening selection, "The Beach," is a perfect novella through which to become acquainted with the author. It telescopes many of the ideas on which Pavese elaborates in the other novels and employs the stylistic devices which characterize his writing.

Two such devices are Pavese's technique for maintaining distance between the main commentator and the other characters in a story, and his love of the element of suspense. The first allows for a sense of objectivity in the commentator through his detachment from entangling emotional alliances.

In "The Beach" the narrator acts merely as an observer on the scene. In the other novels, the narrator considers it a virtue to be alone, sufficient unto himself, independent of other human beings. Binding relationships such as marriage destroy this independence and sap the individual of his identity.

This attitude nicely accommodates Pavese's uncertain stance toward the heterosexual relationship. His men and women seem more content and better adjusted in being alone than in being able to form workable, fulfilling twosomes.

A feeling of suspense permeates each of the four selections in this volume. It appropriately dominates the atmosphere in "The House on the Hill," a novel set at the time of World War II. In all the stories this element is controlled and in proportion to the subject it augments. Even after the climactic point is reached, Pavese is masterfully able to extend the resolution of all suspense to the very end of the novel.

Pavese is concerned with the roles people play: the new role of the emerging middle class in Italy following World War II, the inteliigentsia and workers as opposed to the leisured, moneyed aristocracy or the downtrodden peasantry ("House on the Hill," "Among Women Only"); the role of the emancipated woman, not as a mother figure or defeminized creature, but as a person in her own right with the need for self-expression ("Among Women Only"); the role of the man in limbo who, having traveled one course, is not quite certain of the future but is unable to go back to the past ("The Beach," "House on the Hill").

Changing roles reflect changing times. Pavese symbolizes this in his division between the city and country, and places which represent the common periphery of both, or neutral zone like "The Beach."

Although the country has long been associated with the purity of the soul, a sense of innocence or health and the city with corruption, Pavese acknowledges that land abandoned and left to waste reflects a waste of human resources and symbolizes a decadent society — as in "The Devil in the Hills."

The city, on the other hand, can offer the source of human salvation — education.

From the realization of every-day-type people in real life situations, Pavese is able to enrich his reading audience with an in-depth presentation of complex ideas and issues. His novels are like a fountain, continually bubbling forth with new thoughts to quicken and refresh the mind.

How tragic a loss to literature that, at the peak of a successful career, at age 42, Pavese saw fit to commit suicide in 1950.

A German Master Translated Into English

THE IMPOSSIBLE PROOF by Hans Erich Nossack; Farrar, Straus and Giroux, 218 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Laurel Shapiro.

Virtually unknown in this country, Hans Nossack is ranked with Kafka, Rilke and Hesse in his native Germany, and compared to Camus and Sartre in France. Aside from a short story or two, this novel appears to be the first of his considerable body of work to be translated into English.

It is an impressive, not to say key, addition to the brilliant post-war work of Gunter Grass, Heinrich Boll and others who are adding a new dimension to German literature.

Nossack, born in 1901, was the forerunner, chronologically at least of the group. He had his first book ready to come out in 1933 but the Nazis prohibited him from publishing, so, like his younger compatriots, his novels, stories and plays did not appear until after the war.

He is a master stylist, translated into English of such clarity that its very transparency is potent with implications. His story is in the form of a trial; a man in the course of his sleepless night assigns himself as judge, defense counsel, prosecutor and defendant to determine his guilt in the apparent disappearance of his wife.

The courtroom interrogation constantly breaks down or takes fresh direction on the turn of a word, on the misconception of what is said, or not quite said, as the evidence is considered.

He is, he tells his court, an insurance broker, precisely because he realizes that there is no insurance against life. He and his wife have been able to attach themselves to their respeciable middle class existence only by tenuous illusions which they carefully sustain for each other. But now perhaps his wife has found a way to break through to reality.

At any rate, she has somehow left his "field of vision."

Although there are deft flashes of humor throughout, this is a serious and disturbing work. The defendant, seeking in his modern emptiness for alleviation that does not exist, is unforgettably immediate and recognizable.

There is no question that Nossack is deservedly ranked with the first writers of our time.

Auspicious Debut For New Series Of Fine Cookbooks

THE COOKING OF PROVINCIAL FRANCE by M. F. K. Fisher; Time-Life, 208 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

Who says there is nothing new in cookbooks? With this book, actually an assemblage, Time-Life launches a most promising "Foods of the World" series that embodies several new concepts.

Gastronome M.F.K. Fisher, a Californian, and photographer Mark Kauffman combine their talents to provide a mouth-watering survey of French country cooking that is so justly famed. In contrast to the elaborate grande cuisine of the great city restaurants, the provincial dishes concentrate upon locally produced foods flavored by their own natural juices, and suffer nothing by contrast. In addition, they are relatively simple to prepare.

Mrs. Fisher differentiates among the various provinces, while duly nothing the thread of similarity that runs through all of them in their food culture.

Recipes are listed in the customary classifications — hors d'oeuvres, breads, soups, fish, poultry, meat, vegetables, desserts, etc. Julia Childs of television fame assisted in the selections. But what makes the format fresh is the technique of taking the reader into the kitchens to enjoy the experience of the actual preparation, the ritual that takes place at the French table, the pleasure of the eating.

There is, of course, the indispensible wine guide plus other information on that subject so important to the French, plus a glossary and a listing of American stores specializing in French ingredients.

Kauffman, a master photographer who specializes in the food field, has provided color pictures that set the taste buds tingling in anticipation.

With this fine volume at a remarkably reasonable price, the buyer also gets a spiral-bound file in which all the recipes are reprinted for kitchen use to save the main book wear and tear. (And in truth, the binding is not up to the standard of the rest of the project.) Charter subscribers to the series also get a kitchen guide with advice on such subjects as shopping, carving, cooking procedures, etc.

It marks a most auspicious debut for a series scheduled to appear on an every-other-month basis under the editorship of Michael Field, who turned from concert pianist to food expertise.

First Novel Proves Too Pretentious

THE SURVIVORS by Anne Edwards; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 253 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Mary Leydecker.

This first novel by Anne Edwards is billed as "light entertainment," but it opens pretentiously contrasting a man who has lived through the horrors of war with a young woman who has survived a mass family murder.

It soon becomes apparent, however, that "The Survivors" is not a social novel, but a mystery-thriller with a little romance thrown in.

In the style of mystery novels, the events may shock and horrify but never depress the reader. Although Luanne Woodrow has spent 10 years in a rest home following the unsolved murder of six members of her family, she never assumes a tragic cast.

On a vacation to Switzerland, her first outing since the tragedy, she meets Hans Aldik, a world-weary writer who wants to do a book about the Woodrow murders. Not only does romance ensue, but the 10-year mystery is solved.

The book is light entertainment, but Miss Edwards might have done better to decide earlier in the novel that she was writing a mystery story — not a commentary on life and death. Her writing at times is too pretentious for the story she has to tell.

History With A Mystery

THE DU BARRY INHERITANCE by Marion Ward; Crowell, 199 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Donald G. Davis.

Anyone interested in a delicious slice of French history with a mysterious twist as to the fate of a famous courtesan's jewelry will like this non-fiction detection story laid in the late 18th Century.

Comtesse Du Barry fell from favor after Louis XV died. She had become his mistress court opposition, and while, according to writer Marion Ward, she didn't necessarily take advantage of her position, she fell from favor and from the court upon the monarch's death. She went to live at a pleasantly lavish country estate and, with the future paved with other lovers, what she could have been rosier?

But in January, 1791, the beautiful woman, born Jeanne Becu, an illegitimate child, visited Paris on Twelfth Night, and a fortune in her jewels was stolen. She didn't know it then, but it was the beginning of the end, a period marked by constant, difficult travel to England, a court fight she never saw to a finish, and imprisonment.

The inheritance and theft story is told against a background of French and English wars and the French and American revolutions, a period enlivened by bloody political and social upheavals.

When Madame Du Barry is put to death, the French government has taken everything that once was hers — except her jewels, then in an English bank vault. She had spent years trying to get them back after the thieves and jewels had been discovered in London.

Finally the jewels are sold and debts are paid, and what happens to the paltry remainder provides for an ironic ending to the story of one of France's most beautiful women.

MARIN POETS CORNER

BETWEEN THE VALLEY AND ME

In this valley the sun shines.
The earth is green.
Green and moist and fragrant
As sun and earth
Give birth to spring.

In this valley flowers open.
Trees' tender leaves grow strong, quicken
As birds and ocean breeze
Linger for a moment
And pass on.

Once in this valley
A boy grew into a man almost.
Called to duty for the sake of country,
for the cause of peace,
in the name of God—
His torn dead body lies tonight
In another land.

In this valley, beautifully serene,
How can there be such pain?

MILL VALLEY — JO JULIN

MARTIN LUTHER KING

When marchers march with Luther King
'Tis true the birds of heaven sing,
Though often songs of sadness
That penetrates each heart,
Each heart that knows the woes of them
Left out from earthly gladness.

When marchers march with Luther King,
They march with hopes that bells will ring
For all whom still denied
The right of choice and movements
In a land not rightly shared,
In a land for which they too fought and died.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

✓ Feed established roses regularly starting now if you haven't ready. Newly planted roses should not be fed until after they start to grow.

✓ Lawns should be fed regularly, too. An early April feeding will do wonders toward restoring a "tired" lawn.

✓ Plant field-grown clumps of delphinium now for bloom in late spring and again in late summer.

✓ Citrus and other subtropical fruits can be planted now. Your nurseryman can recommend the best varieties for you.

✓ Picking faded blooms from pansies and violas is a sure way to keep them blooming over a longer period.

✓ Spray apple and pear trees when they complete their blooming to assure "wormless" fruit.

✓ Now is a great time to buy rhododendrons, since you can select them in bloom.

✓ Summer annuals are coming into the nurseries thick and fast now.

WHILE THESE fibrous begonias are not nearly as spectacular as their tuberous-rooted cousins, they do provide Marin gardeners with excellent material for edging walks and garden beds, and for window boxes. Try them with Dusty Miller for a nice contrast. (Photo courtesy of the California Association of Nurserymen)

Begonia Is God's Gift To Marin Gardener

Tuberous begonias are surely among the finest gifts that God gave to gardeners.

Their development over the last two or three decades has been dramatic and today's exotic developments are seemingly the ultimate in beauty. What more can be done to improve this flower?

A VISIT TO one of the begonia growing grounds near Santa Cruz can be the highlight of your summer holiday. You will come away with the resolve that next year, surely, you are going to indulge in the pleasure of growing tuberous begonias.

There's really no need to wait until next year, however, for nurserymen can put you in business right away. You can still buy the tubers if you can find them and start with year-old plants; or you can buy seedlings, which are cheaper by the dozen; or you can buy sprouted tubers in plant bands and small pots. These are available from mid-spring into early summer.

If you purchase the tubers, set them about three inches apart in flats of leaf-mold and sand, mixed about two parts leaf mold to one sand. Place the flat in a shaded spot and sprinkle regularly. When the sprouting tops are about four inches high, transfer the individual plants to a garden bed or to pots.

BEGONIAS ARE ideal pot plants.

A potting mixture of leaf mold, sand and garden loam is preferred, though some growers like to incorporate peat moss, too. The proportions are not critical, so long as the sand makes up no more than a quarter of the mix.

Seedling plants and nursery-sprouted tubers may be transferred directly to pots or to a garden bed. The seedlings should be staked with bamboo to support them. Some growers advise staking mature plants, also.

TUBEROUS begonias are at their best under our coastal conditions, and like plenty of moisture and cool, high shade.

Feed with liquid fish for best results — once a month for plants in the ground, semi-monthly for potted plants.

The blooms come from early summer through mid-fall.

Answering Queries About Chain Saws

They're One Of Most Useful Tools That The Home Owner Can Acquire

What's all this about chain saws?

What do people do with them? What do they cost? Answers to some typical questions the might-be chain saw owner has whirling about in his head are provided by Omark Industries Inc. marketing director Ashton Marcus.

1. FIRST OF all, what exactly is a chain saw?

"It's a saw powered by either a gas or electric engine on which the cutting edge is a length of chain that revolves around an oblong guide bar. The cutting action comes from sharp, precisely positioned steel cutters formed on the chain links, the cutters chip away at the wood as the chain turns at speeds of more than 35 miles per hour."

2. Is the tool difficult to handle?

"Not any more. The first models introduced weighed about 200 pounds and required two or three men to operate. Today there are compactly constructed models under 12 pounds that an operator can put to work after spending only a few minutes reading a manual."

3. What are the advantages of the tool?

"It's a tremendous labor-saver, capable of sawing through a foot-thick log in just a few seconds. And, as far as the gas engine types is concerned, it is a completely portable implement that can be operated virtually anywhere."

4. Does it burn a lot of fuel?

"A gallon of ordinary gas, mixed with a small quantity of oil, will run a saw engine more than an hour."

5. Are they a lot of trouble to maintain?

"NOT REALLY. Routine maintenance involves cleaning sawdust and pitch from the saw chain and guide bar after the saw is used, a task requiring a few minutes, and keeping the chain sharp for maximum cutting efficiency. A professional logger has to sharpen his chain every day, but the occasional user need only file his chain only once after every four tankfuls of fuel, on the average. Some saw models now are equipped with built-in sharpening systems by which chain is sharpened automatically in just five seconds.

"As with all gas-powered engines, the air filter, spark plug and carburetor on a chain saw engine need periodic cleaning."

6. Are chain saws tough to start?

"One short, quick tug on a starting cord is enough to turn over a gas engine on a saw, if it is in good running order. Some operators do tend to make things difficult for themselves by yanking too furiously on the cord and wind up with a rewinding task on their hands. With the latter group in mind, no doubt, one major saw manufacturer recently introduced a pushbutton engine starter."

7. ARE CHAIN saws dangerous?

"Hardly more than an ordinary hand saw — and in operating it many of the same types of safety precautions should be taken. For example, you should wear a hard hat to protect your head for falling branches if you are cutting a tree. And observers, particularly children, should be kept away from the sawing operation. The main safety rule in operating a power saw is to keep both hands firmly on the saw and your feet firmly planted in a well-balanced position."

8. Are chain saws expensive?

"They vary widely in price, some smaller, light-duty saws selling for about $90 and some heavy duty models running as high as $200."

9. Can you rent them?

"Yes, as a matter of fact, chain saws are one of the standard items at tool rental shops. It will cost you between $10 and $15 a day, so make sure, if you do decide to rent, you can put it to a lot of use. There usually is a weekend rush on power saw rentals and the tools are particularly scarce after a heavy windstorm and there is debris to be cleared."

10. What do people who aren't professional loggers do with chain saws?

"LOTS OF things. In fact, Omark has found that two out of three saw owners today are not professional woodsmen. The home owner generally uses a chain saw to cut fence posts, prune trees and cut firewood.

"Campers and fishermen often take a chain saw with them on trips, to cut firewood, make tent poles, rafts, cutting boards and lean-tos to protect their gear."

A FIVE-SIDED deck provides more space than the ordinary rectangle, and eases naturally into the surrounding garden. The deck boards are weathered Douglas fir two-by-fours on edge with one-eighth inch spacing. Planters and benches are attractive additions that prevent a bleak look in the winter.

Angles Add Space And Interest To Your Outdoor Living Area

You Don't Have To Restrict Deck To Standard Rectangular Shape

Searching for more outdoor living space?

Take a tip from the experts and consider building a pentagon-shaped deck — or one in any other non-rectangular shape.

You add considerable square footage to the deck area just by pulling one side out to form a prow, according to landscape designers. And, at the same time, you put a lot of zip into its design.

JUST DRAWING the outline of a pentagon on paper quickly illustrates the amount of space it adds compared to an ordinary rectangle. And it also illustrates another point: that the space is far more arrangeable.

Unrestricted by the rigidity of four right angles, space on the deck opens up to allow more flexible arrangements of seating and dining areas.

A good way to handle it starts with benches built along two or more sides of the deck. This area, then, quickly converts to a conversation grouping when light-weight chairs are drawn up facing the benches, or to an eating space when tables and additional chairs are pulled up.

Meanwhile, permanent seating is established.

ANOTHER interesting facet of the five-sided deck is that it seems to ease into the garden more gracefully. Planting beds can evolve naturally on two sides, backed by screens to give privacy to the area, if necessary. On the other two sides, 18-inch-wide steps can slide out from the deck to take it down to lawn level.

On the fifth side will lie the house or a tall privacy fence, if the deck is built deep in the garden.

In building the pentagonal deck, it's easiest to run the deck boards perpendicular to the house walls. Douglas fir two-by-fours can be used and laid either flat or on edge, with boards spaced an eighth inch apart to allow rain runoff. If built close to the ground, pressure-treated lumber is recommened.
